

Pesticides Not Seen As Threat

Health Department Study Covers 10 Years

And 130 Volunteers In Berrien

By JOHN FENNEL
Staff Writer

The use of pesticides apparently doesn't have any harmful, long-term effects on health, according to the results of a 10-year research study carried out in Berrien county.

Adrian Oudbier, principal investigator for the study carried out here by the Michigan Department of Health, said researchers could find "no demonstrable, chronic effects from the use of pesticides on the health of those persons studied."

Speaking at the annual Michigan State Horticultural Society Spring meeting yesterday at Lake Michigan college, Oudbier said that the only effect researchers could find in the 130 volunteers studied here was a buildup between the years 1965 and 1969 of the organo-chlorine class of compounds such as in DDT. He said, however, that in studying the same people between the years 1969 and 1973 the levels of DDT in their bodies were lower. The use of DDT was banned in 1970.

Oudbier added that although the DDT was found in those persons studied, researchers could not tie it with any adverse health effects.

Those persons studied consisted of growers, and their families and another group who had a less continuous exposure to pesticides.

The study, called the Community Pesticide Study, was part of a nationwide research effort by the federal government to determine the effects, if any, of pesticides on human health. Berrien county was one of 15 sites selected because of comparatively heavy use of pesticides by the fruit industry.

Oudbier said that it is possible that pesticides do have some chronic effect on health, "but we just couldn't find any, if they are there." He said the tests may have been biased because there were not enough people studied (only 4,000 persons were studied nationwide) or because "we didn't know what we were looking for."

The study was begun in 1965 and wasn't officially terminated until 1973, although no real data was collected during the last two years.

Oudbier said that the study has now changed its name to the Epidemiological Studies Program because it is now under the administration of the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

Under the EPA, the study has now changed its focus. Rather than concentrating on a small population in specific sites, the work of the group now consists of broader studies concerning pesticides on larger populations.

Oudbier said the group has recently carried out studies on how much and where pesticides are being used in the country; the effect of pesticides on respiration and skin; and the number of people brought into Michigan hospitals that have been acutely poisoned from the use of pesticides.

He said future studies include the effect pesticides may have on migrant workers and a study trying to determine if some compounds produce cancer. He added researchers are planning to send a follow-up questionnaire to these persons in the area who took part in the study to see if there has been any change in their health.

During the actual study volunteers were given extensive physical examinations in which X-rays and numerous blood and urine samples were studied.

Higher Incomes May Not Get $50 Carter Rebates

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Taxwriters in Congress are considering whether to take President Carter's proposed $50-per-person rebates away from upper income taxpayers and give a few dollars more to those in lower brackets.

That is one of the alternatives that the congressional tax staff has outlined for the House Ways and Means Committee, which starts work today on the tax proposals in Carter's $31.2 billion economic stimulus plan.

Meanwhile, a published report said Carter plans to propose increasing the deficit for fiscal 1978 by $11 billion to $14 billion above levels recommended by the Ford administration in its final budget.

The Washington Post said today the Carter administration estimates receipts at just under $400 billion and expenditures approaching $460 billion. Former President Gerald R. Ford's budget envisioned receipts of $393 billion and expenditures of $449 billion.

The Ways and Means Committee, where all tax legislation must originate, is likely to use the President's tax proposals as the vehicle for extending existing general tax cuts through next year.

The President's tax plan calls for a flat $50 for nearly all Americans regardless of income.

The tax staff said that phasing out the rebate for those with gross incomes between $25,000 and $35,000 would reduce the refund's total by $818 million. The revenue saved could increase the rebates for those making less than $25,000 to $54, the staff said. Persons with an income of $30,000 would get $25 rebates, but those earning more than $35,000 would get nothing.

Or, the staff said, the rebates could be raised to $57 for those making below $10,000, $53.50 for those at the $12,500 level, $50 for those making between $15,000 and $25,000 and then phasing it out by $35,000.

The committee also may reshape other tax parts of Carter's two-year stimulus program. Changes are expected in the package's business tax portions.

However, Ways and Means is generally expected to stay close to Carter's recommended total of $22 billion worth of plans over two years involving taxes and rebates.

Non-tax items in the President's package, such as job-creating programs, are being handled by other committees, which are likely to increase the spending levels.

The general tax cuts that are expected to be continued through 1978 include individual credits, a special bonus for the working poor, and corporate tax rate revisions to aid small businesses.

The current tax credit is $35 for each taxpayer and dependent. Taxpayers can opt instead for a credit of 2 per cent on the first $9,000 of taxable income, saving a maximum of $180. The credit saves taxpayers about

Tax Credit Protection Bill Sent To Milliken

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Lower income homeowners would be protected against losing property tax credits under a bill Gov. William Milliken has received and is expected to sign.

The bill won final Senate approval, 28-0, Tuesday. It guards against a loss of tax credits by restricting the definition of household income.

It is the first bill of 1977 to clear the legislature, and has Milliken's support.

The measure excludes from the definition of household income payments from employers to health, accident and life insurance plans. Supporters say it could save low income taxpayers anywhere from $5 to $50 in tax credits they otherwise might have lost.

The state Treasury Department, in its 1977 tax forms, listed such employer contributions as part of household income. The effect was to raise household income and entitle eligible taxpayers to less of a tax credit.

Homeowners file for the tax credit on their state income tax forms. The credit is based on the amount of property tax paid and household income, with a maximum credit of $1,200.

Some low-income homeowners receive a total write-off of their property taxes through the credit.

Treasury Department officials said the forms contained nothing new, and said taxpayers should have reported such insurance contributions as income all along.

But lawmakers said that was not the intent of the tax credit law, and hustled through the bill correcting the misunderstanding.

Under the measure, employer-paid contributions to insurance plans would not have to be reported as household income. Persons who already have filed their returns this year and included those contributions have two years to file an amended return to correct it.

People who pay their own insurance premiums will be able to deduct the cost from their income next year so they will be treated the same as those whose employers pay the cost.

RESULT OF COVERT CASE

Kelley Says Many Voters Disqualified

LANSING — In response to an inquiry by state Rep. Bela Kennedy (R-Bangor), Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Tuesday that nearly 200 of Michigan's small school districts have been denying voters the right to cast absentee ballots in school elections.

Kennedy said today he is currently working on a bill which will clarify the school absentee voting procedure. Kelley said he made the inquiry about absentee ballots after an injunction was handed down in Van Buren county circuit court last May overturning a school decision in favor that in effect did away with absentee balloting there.

The Covert vote made the district non-registered which cut out absentee balloting.

Kelley's opinion requested action by the legislature to clarify the voting procedure.

Kelley said districts which don't maintain their own records of eligible voters have failed to provide for absentee voting, in violation of the state constitution.

Education Department officials said about one-third of the state's 581 school districts would be affected by Kelley's opinion.

Most districts, including the largest ones, keep their own voter records because district boundaries don't coincide with the boundaries of the cities and townships that also maintain records of electors.

The smaller districts have relied on those municipal records in their school elections, however.

Agreement Reached In AMC Talks

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Negotiators for American Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers reached tentative agreement late Tuesday afternoon on a seven month contract that calls for an average pay hike of 7.2 per cent.

Union spokesmen said the contract would permit the automaker to stay financially afloat in the face of a continuing sales slump.

Union bargainers said they would recommend acceptance of the proposed contract to UAW locals in Milwaukee, Kenosha, Wis., and Brampton, Ont., where the nation's fourth-largest automaker employs about 9,700 production workers.

The settlement came just hours before an 11 p.m. deadline set by the UAW, which had authorized a strike.

Voyageurs Afloat Again

Members of the LaSalle Expedition II yesterday found the Mississippi river open and continued their long trip to New Orleans in their canoes.

David Upton, Berrien county chairman for the expedition committee, said with the exception of one short trip on water, the voyagers until yesterday had hiked since they left St. Joseph after Christmas.

The 19-member party put their six canoes in the water yesterday morning in Chester, Ill. Upton said that warm temperatures have thawed the Mississippi river, which earlier was frozen all the way to Memphis, Tenn.

The voyagers are right on schedule, despite the hardships of this winter, according to Upton. It was lucky that the river thawed when it did, because the travelers' plans called for an increase in daily trip lengths from 15 to 40 miles a day.

They hope to arrive in New Orleans on April 3, he said.

Canadian Prime Minister Next To Visit Carter

Having sent Lopez Portillo back to his presidential palace on a note of renewed cordiality between Mexico and the United States, Jimmy Carter is setting himself to entertain Pierre Trudeau, Canada's prime minister, this coming Monday and Tuesday.

The two visitations are symbolic gestures by Carter toward our most immediate international neighbors whose governments complain frequently they are neglected by Washington.

Conciliatory gestures have issued from both sides of the Canadian border as a prelude to Trudeau's visit.

The prime minister has been invited to address a joint session of Congress. Should the arrangement come off as scheduled, it will be the first such appearance for any Canadian chief of state.

Canada took a step more meaningful to people south of her border. A month ago the National Energy Board at Ottawa approved an emergency release of 15 billion cubic feet of natural gas and 50,000 barrels of heavy fuel oil to the U.S. This is a temporary reversal of the Board's longer range program initiated last year to close off fuel exports entirely by 1980 to conserve a dwindling supply at home.

While the reciprocal actions have smoothed the path for closer understanding between Ottawa and Washington, the relationship remains prickly.

U.S. business interests are disturbed by Saskatchewan province nationalizing its potash industry and dominion legislation discouraging Canadian companies from advertising in U.S. media. Time magazine scrapped its Canadian edition because of that economic impact and U.S. radio and television stations beaming a signal across the border are finding Canadian sponsors a rarity.

By the same money token, the Canadian tourist industry views the 1976

Tax Reform Act as a foul blow. One provision virtually disqualifies the expense of attending a convention outside the U.S. as a tax deductible business cost. This galls the Canadian hotel and resort operator because of the substantial Canadian membership in North American business, professional and service organizations.

The most sensitive issue is posed by Quebec where a separatist sentiment is gaining strength.

Last month the province's prime minister, Rene Levesque, spoke to the Economic Club of New York on the advantages for U.S. investment if Quebec should establish independence from the Canadian Federation.

His audience and those reading reports of the speech reacted warily to the overture.

Nonetheless, Trudeau rightly fears if Levesque can instill confidence among U.S. business interests he would be prompted to sever Quebec's ties with Ottawa.

As the host to his counterpart in government, Carter can be expected to assure Trudeau the U.S. will not support any move which could be construed as interference in Canada's domestic affairs.

Official Washington is not looking for a two-day visit to reach a solution to problems any more than the Carter-Portillo chats resolved the irksome question of a million or more Mexicans illegally domiciled in the U.S.

Better understanding is the immediate goal.

The Toronto Globe and Mail in editorializing on Trudeau's tour aptly said of the meeting:

"If relations between the two are to provide healthy context in which individual irritants can be dealt with as individual irritants, each country needs to be able to recognize what it is doing when it steps on the other's toes and to explain to the owner of the toes why that step was necessary."

The Fat Cats Don't Want Reorganization

Executive branch reorganization plans traditionally have run into opposition in Congress more because of their effects on the legislative process than the executive. President Carter's reorganization plan is heading in the same bumpy direction unless something happens to change its course.

Within hours after the Carter plan's submission, Rep. Jack Brooks, Chairman of the House Government Operations Committee, assailed the concept in such strong tones there was some question whether the congressman would call the Carter bill for hearings before the committee.

At issue in the Brooks objection is the procedure incorporated in the bill to present reorganization proposals to Congress. The proposals would become law unless either the House or Senate vetoed the plan within 60 days.

"To let the President propose and enact a law unless Congress vetoes it is to stand the Constitution on its head," was the Brooks assessment. The Texas congressman added he would introduce legislation which would permit Carter's reorganization plans to take effect only after approval by both houses of Congress.

That is but the first objection the administration has encountered. There will be others from committee chairmen and other influential lawmakers who will want to see specific agencies over which they have legislative domain altered, combined or abolished.

Joy Of Fireplace Is Its Simplicity

Taking respite from a cold winter evening to sit before an open fire always has been an enjoyable and relaxing experience. This winter more than usual it brings satisfaction through the realization that nature provides antidotes for even its own most extreme behavior.

Few persons would wish to return to a total dependence upon a fire in hearth or stove for cooking and heating, but the magic glow of hot embers, the aromas of different woods and the warmth — inefficient though it may be as a heating utility — somehow wash away some of the concerns of a season already the worst in memory for much of the nation.

An open fire is a simple contrivance, but effective. Perhaps that is part of its charm also. In a world which is not simple anymore, and sometimes seems too complicated to work, the reassurance of something as elementary as a wood fire adds to its warmth.

And Now The Good News—

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

SAYS BENTON CAN'T AFFORD AMBULANCE FACT

Editor,
Here we go again! The taxpayers of Benton Township are going to get hit up again for the $25,000. The first time we paid that much was when the township had work performed by a non-licensed contractor. Now we are being asked to pay over $25,000 to fund CES. Twenty-five thousand dollars, in my opinion, is a lot more money than the taxpayers in Benton Township can afford to pay.

In the past, Benton Township purchased a van for Rampart Ambulance, Inc. and they (Rampart) in turn transformed this van into a highly efficient ambulance to be used by their highly efficient emergency medical technicians to supply Benton Township with the finest ambulance service it has ever known. It would appear that certain Government entities are carrying out a personal vendetta against Rampart Ambulance for reasons unbeknownst to me (and I am sure many other people).

Why treat Rampart like a disposable diaper; use them and when you are done with them, throw them out. Rampart and Action have both stated that their cash flow problem stems from past due Medicaid accounts due them. What is of major concern to me is how CES thinks that they are going to be able to collect these payments any better than Rampart and Action have been doing.

In my opinion, having the municipalities cover any uncollectable bills would guarantee excellent ambulance service and keep the American free enterprise system moving instead of setting up another bureaucracy which will inevitably become something that will be too big to handle.

I am most interested in receiving further comments and true opinions from all people; not strictly limited to the taxpayers.

Thank you.

WANTS BHBS BUS PARKING CHANGED

Mr. Ed. Bill Bentley,
President,
Benton Harbor School Board
2288 Riverside
Benton Harbor, Michigan

Dear Mr. Bentley:

As a Benton Harbor school taxpayer I want to complain about the traffic situation your buses are causing at 8 o'clock in the morning at the Benton Harbor High School.

Why is it necessary to unload your buses on both Colfax and Empire during the hours that working people are going to work in the morning? Colfax is a heavily traveled street between seven and eight in the morning, and your school buses create quite a traffic problem that I think is unnecessary. On Colfax the children are unloaded on the school side of the bus, yet the flashing lights are on causing a traffic hazard on both sides of the bus, sometimes as far down as the light on Empire and Colfax. The children should not be crossing the street, as they should be going into the school. Empire is almost as bad, as the buses are also either loading or unloading there and causing another traffic problem. This is not only frustrating to the motorist, but also dangerous because of all the tie ups.

Why can't you use the parking area behind the school for all of your buses to load and unload. I have heard numerous other people complain about this situation, and there has been many calls on "Sound Off" about this situation.

My husband and I have always voted for any tax millage for the schools, but with this inconsiderate treatment to taxpayers we will certainly reconsider how we will vote for any millage increase in the future unless something is done about this situation. I am sure we are not alone in feeling this way.

Do You REMEMBER?

— 10 Years Ago —

A fast-traveling storm that slammed into southwestern Michigan on west winds up to 60 and 65 mile-an-hour peaks last night left a wide scattering of damage in its wake. The new Mand Preston Palenske Memorial library in St. Joseph sustained considerable damage shortly after 11 o'clock last night when the wind uprooted a huge elm tree. The tree crashed down on the southwest corner of the roof.

— 25 Years Ago —

After a lapse of nine years, Berrien county's Fruit Belt was assured today that there will be a 1952 Blossom festival. The Benton Harbor Chamber of Commerce is calling a public meeting next Friday evening to enlist any and all who want to work on this year's revived edition of the once nationally-famed fete. Ray Jeffers, president of the Benton Harbor Chamber of Commerce, said his board of directors decided yesterday to proceed full steam ahead at once.

— 50 Years Ago —

Henry Wims needs no introduction to the people of Benton Harbor. He is as much of an institution as a bank or a school. And Henry's broad smile is bestowed upon everyone without discrimination. Well might he smile, for he and his four sons own and operate one of the oldest as well as most popular taxicab companies in the twin cities. They have a reputation for courtesy and service which is the envy of their business competitors. Henry Wims was once a slave. It is a far cry from the cotton fields of the old south to a position as proprietor of a thriving business which possesses the confidence of hundreds of people. Henry Wims made the jump, not in one mighty leap, but little by little, over years and years of time.

— 75 Years Ago —

About sixty happy coasters were out on the Broad street hill, St. Joseph, last evening for a good time. Sleds were mounted at the Baptist church and merrily ran their course nearly to the Truscott boat factory. The Misses Katherine Freund and Mary Chase gave a Valentine party to twenty of their friends at the Kingsland home, St. Joseph, last evening. Notwithstanding the remarks to the contrary by certain croakers, who have figured the matter up one side and down the other without knowing anything about it, St. Joseph's new municipal lighting plant is a complete success.

Conservatives Without Rudder

WASHINGTON — If the mood at the year's first major conservative political meeting is a valid indicator, the dedicated organizers of the right wing remain as enthusiastic and determined as ever but their ship is rudderless.

Most of those interviewed here last week at the Conservative Political Action Conference readily acknowledged that they have no burning national issues to fire up their constituency, no charismatic leaders to carry their banner and no consensus on how to extend their political influence.

The one politician they universally revere, Ronald Reagan, California's former Republican governor, once again proved he is one of the best stump speakers in American politics today. The current version of his campaign stumpwinder attracted a cheering standing-room-only crowd at a Saturday night banquet.

The following day, however, Reagan turned 66. Passing the traditional "retirement age" never has been much respected in politics, but Reagan is a horse who has been around the track too many times. Even some of his most fervent admirers cannot envision yet another bid for the presidency in 1980 at the age of 69.

A hero of equal stature from an earlier day, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater, R-Ariz., is 68 years old. He was nowhere in '58, having been shunned by the purists for his support of President Ford in last year's contest with Reagan for the Republican presidential nomination.

There are numerous others making subtle overtures in the hope that the mantle of leadership will pass to them. Sen. Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., is among the best known, but campaign-hardened conservatives are uneasy about what they perceive to be a lack of political stability on his part.

There also is an entire generation of men and women in their 30s and early 40s, many of them charter members of Young Americans for Freedom, who are positioning themselves to some day fill the shoes of Goldwater and Reagan. But their time has not yet come.

When ideologues on either side of the political spectrum gather, there are always issues. But the conservative platter these days is filled with such leftovers as gun control, abortion, the equal rights amendment, the Occupational Safety and Health Administration and the death penalty. None has proven appetizing enough to lure an electoral majority to the banquet table.

The most obvious symptom of the conservatives' plight is their inability to agree upon a political home. For many, including Reagan, the preferred course is to work within the Republican party.

That lack of direction was vividly reflected in a questionnaire distributed to participants at the conference. The first question asked whether conservatives should turn their energies toward the Democratic party, "revive the Republican party" or form a new party.

For those who chose the GOP, there was a choice of no fewer than 11 possible new names, including Conservative Republican, Conservative, Conservative Independent, Independent Republican, Independence, Liberty, Freedom and Democratic Freedom.

But only last month, conservatives who chose to remain within the GOP flapped badly when they tried to capture the chairmanship of the Republican National Committee with an obscure candidate, Richard Richards, the Utah-state Republican chairman.

"His name was hardly a household word," admitted one supporter. For him and other conservatives, a political comeback may indeed be in the offing but this is truly the writer of their discontent.

To Celebrate FDR Anniversary

WASHINGTON — Benjamin Cohen, 82, is a name out of the past. But as architect of much of the New Deal legislation which reformed forever the old social order in the late 1890s, Cohen has had more impact on modern American life than many more famous men.

Cohen and some 800 New Deal colleagues, from messenger boys to cabinet officers, are going to celebrate the 44th anniversary of Franklin Roosevelt's first inaugural here on March 4th. Hardly anyone who is invited to the affair is under 60 years old.

But vintage has not doused the passionate fires of reform which burned in the hearts of FDR's crew. Many former officials wrote testily they'd come only if so-and-so who had fought such-and-such wasn't on the program.

Actually, the program's main feature will be Roosevelt's political heir, President Carter, who was safely in grade school while all that in-fighting was going on.

Other activities in the capital: President Carter has committed himself to an hour-long radio program over CBS on a Saturday afternoon next month during which he will answer questions telephoned to him by listeners. CBS, not the White House, will screen the calls for possible obscenity or other problems.

It's part of Carter's campaign to try to stay in touch with ordinary voters. He will also give another fireside chat from the White House in roughly a month and hold a press conference every two weeks. Well, that's the plan, anyway.

Henry Kissinger not only has Secret Service protection, he still rates a private two-car no-parking zone in front of his house in Georgetown. Parking spots in the area are scarce as hen's teeth for all the other residents.

On Inaugural Day, several florist trucks pulled up at the new residence of Vice President Mondale, bearing bouquets from old neighbors and friends. The Secret Service refused to let them enter. An aide begged at least to be able to take the cards, attached to the flowers, so the Mondales could know whom to thank later. No soap.

Mondale associates thought the Secret Service a bit paranoid, until it was discovered that three letter bombs had been mailed to President Carter that day and two to Mondale.

The House Ethics Commission has proposed a $100 limit on all personal gifts. The very week before the proposals came up, Canada sent a gloriously illustrated bound volume of its national history to every member of Congress, in honor of its visit to Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau. Query: Was the book worth more than $100? Nobody knew, and everybody was too embarrassed to ask, so they simply kept it.

Rep. David Obey, D-Wis., has a 13-year-old son who is unhappy about all the weekend visits his dad makes back to the district. The other day, watching the President on television, the son said abruptly, "I think Billy's smarter than Jimmy." "Why?" asked Obey.

"Because anybody who leaves a farm to go into politics is crazy," his son observed. "It takes too much time."

Benton OKs $905,000 Budget For CD Program

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

Benton township's proposed $905,000 third-year Community Development program budget was approved last night by a 4 to 2 vote of the board of trustees. Also approved were seven appointments to the Community Development citizens' advisory committee.

The budget adopted was unchanged from revisions recommended at the final public hearing last week, but new criticism was voiced by Mrs. Cecilia Burke, an out-going member of the citizens' group.

Mrs. Burke said she was unable to obtain a copy of the final program budget at the township office on Monday. She also expressed a desire to continue on the citizens' committee, but was not considered by Supervisor Cathryn Sirk for reappointment. Mrs. Sirk said it's good to have different citizens serve.

Voting in support of the CD budget were Mrs. Sirk, Clerk Larry Trail, Treasurer Ken Malkin, and Trustee Margaret Crisul. Opposed were Trustees Arnold Leonard and Dave Hamner. Trustee Nora Jefferson abstained from voting. She said this was because the child care center she directs in Benton Harbor is an applicant for funding.

Leonard said he favors the CD application, but thinks the citizens' advisory committee should be aware of the final form that was voted on last night. He sought a postponement of the board vote. Hamner said CD Director Judd Spray hasn't answered all citizen questions. Hamner charged that Spray cites "communication gaps" as the reason. "If we can't solve a lack of communication, how can we spend $900,000," Hamner said.

The CD budget items are: Public works, $877,700; housing loans and grants, $240,000; general administration, $107,900; code enforcement, $26,400; dental care program, $31,000; child care center, $27,500; senior citizens' center, Benton Harbor, $21,500; and planning and management, $6,000.

Mrs. Burke produced a copy of a legal advertisement from The Herald-Palladium that said, in part: "Copies of said application will be available for review at the township municipal building Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m." Mrs. Burke said she asked Spray for a copy to see if any program budget changes were made, but was refused. Mrs. Burke said she finally received a copy delivered to her home yesterday.

Mrs. Burke also said she asked Spray for a breakdown on the administration budget, and was told by Spray it was printed last week in The Herald-Palladium.

Spray said since no changes in the CD budget were made since the last hearing, additional copies were not passed out until yesterday.

Some 40 people turned out for last night's meeting. Spray said the turnout occurred because of rumors that all social programs were dropped from the budget.

Named to the citizens' advisory committee for one-year terms were, Louise Price, 431 North Crystal; Sherry Williams, 719 Tower drive; Katie Roseburgh, 1789 Crystal; Johnnie L. Hudson, 1801 Highland; Walter Heritz, 3615 East Napier. Named to two-year terms were, Charles O. Kasun, 595 Kublick drive; and Ben Hurse, 1654 East Empire.

In other business, Mrs. Sirk reported that three township firemen with medical aid training are manning the ambulance repossessed Monday from Rampart Ambulance service. Mrs. Sirk said they will operate in emergencies until the new municipally-owned Community Ambulance Emergency Service ambulances begin operation, hopefully by next week. She said both Rampart and Action, privately-owned firms, are still in business.

The board approved nine months funding (Jan. 1, 1977, to Sept. 30, 1977) of $10,488 to help support the new service.

The money will come from existing revenue sharing funds.

The board set a public hearing for the next meeting, March 1, on the allocation of new federal revenue sharing money, totaling $153,174.

The board also approved a water ordinance amendment that sets surcharge rates for water customers who reside outside the township. Residential customers with a 3/4-inch meter would pay will pay a surcharge of $2 per month in addition to their regular rate. Bills are sent out every two months, making the surcharge $4 per billing. The largest water users with an eight-inch meter would pay a surcharge of $18 per month, besides the regular rate. New water rates were set last month and reported by this newspaper.

Treasurer Malkin said he will be in his office additional hours to collect property taxes: 8:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 26, and 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Monday, Feb. 28, the deadline to avoid delinquent penalties.

Telling Benton Harbor city officials that "ideas and solutions to problems must come from you," Congressman Dave Stockman yesterday met with city department heads as a first step towards possible solutions.

Stockman (R-St. Joseph) met for two hours in city hall with 23 city officials and citizens in what he termed "a briefing for priorities for attention." Topics focused on housing, unemployment, economic development, welfare, federal funding of various programs, and crime.

Stockman, in the Twin Cities area during a Congressional recess, noted: "I came to listen to you because I believe strongly in local government. The ideas and solutions to problems must come from you, I serve as the vehicle to take your suggestions to the federal government."

"I'm concerned with what has been called the 'plight' you have in the city today," Stockman said. "We're at a point now where new opportunities are possible and we must work towards constructive solutions."

City Manager Melvin Farmer Jr. labeled the meeting "very beneficial," and noted Stockman pledged it would not be the last of such meetings.

He added Stockman's appearance in Benton Harbor "cleared up many local doubts about Mr. Stockman's commitment to serve the whole area, and I feel it was a step in the right direction."

Much of the meeting focused on the housing situation in the city, with Sammie Smith, director of the Benton Harbor-Benton township housing commission, declaring a need for more and better public housing and a need to review housing programs available from the federal government.

Al Chase, director of economic development, fell rehabilitation of older houses should be stressed over new construction, and City Commissioner Edmund Eaman told Stockman the current rehabilitation standards are too high. Stockman queried officials on why property values are so low and rents are high, with a number of people responding that the department of social services subsidizes rents but not home purchases, creating a market for high rentals.

Herbert Boston, city inspection director, advocated the creation of a non-profit corporation which could receive grants and then make loans to home buyers at lower interest rates and perhaps 40-year mortgages to reduce monthly payments.

On the city's high unemployment rate, set at 22 percent by the state, Smith said better employment programs are needed, since a lot of money is spent on job training programs, but in reality the programs are "attitudinal training."

Stockman responded that one of the biggest problems is training people for jobs that are not needed in the area. He noted one of the biggest needs in the near future will be for insulation contractors as part of the country's energy conservation program. "By training some people in this field we could solve a double problem," he said.

Farmer pointed out there is a problem in getting businesses to locate in economically depressed areas, and suggested some type of incentives be provided to businesses that locate in such areas.

On the welfare situation, Eaman stressed there is a need for welfare payments to become more uniform, claiming Michigan's high benefits have a direct relation to Benton Harbor's condition.

"One of my major priorities is to get Congress to recognize the urgency of the situation," Stockman noted. He said there is a need to have one committee dealing with all phases of welfare to reform and revamp the system, but currently different welfare programs are splintered among a number of committees.

Questioned on why Benton Harbor did not receive any public works funds under the recent Economic Development act, Stockman suggested some hidden criteria may have been used in evaluating grant requests, but said a new act would have more stringent guidelines.

Joseph Christoffel, city finance director, asked Stockman what the future of revenue sharing was, noting the city's police and fire departments are heavily dependent on the funds. Stockman predicted that when the issue next comes before Congress, in 1981, "it could be touch-and-go."

While there was no discussion on one of Benton Harbor's major problems — crime — Eaman noted just as the meeting ended there should be some type of legislation to help the victims of crimes.

Advancement Fund Is Over $29,000

The Lake Michigan Catholic Schools '77 Advancement Fund has reached a total of $29,348.52. Edward T. Donahue and Robert L. Starks, co-chairmen, announced today at a breakfast report meeting for volunteers.

The Advancement Fund, administered by the Twin-City Area Catholic School Fund, Inc., is an annual program to provide operating support for Lake Michigan Catholic schools in St. Joseph and Benton Harbor. Donahue and Starks expressed appreciation for the community's investment in education and praised the effective efforts of volunteer workers.

The '77 Advancement Fund program, which began in October, will continue throughout the school year. The fund has not set a formal goal. Last year, $32,000 was raised.

Charles Gray of Benton township was honored as "Citizen of the Year" by the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club last night for his many years of work with area youth.

Coordinator of placement and follow-up for the Benton Harbor area schools skills center, Gray is probably best known for his 12 years as youth and program director at the Benton township YMCA branch.

The award, according to Seymour Zaban, chairman of the Kiwanis club selection committee, is presented each year to one of Benton Harbor's outstanding citizens in acknowledgement of continuous high achievement and leadership in giving of oneself. "Charlie is one person who doesn't expect special treatment or honors for the things he does," Zaba said. "But he certainly deserves it."

Wes Caple, director of quality control for Whirlpool Corp. and a member of the Kiwanis club for the past 10 years, was presented the "Kiwanian of the Year" award. The Kiwanis club cited Gray for his "continuous devotion to area youth."

Gray is a Y-Uncle in the Twin Cities YMCA program that assigns area men on a one-to-one basis with fatherless boys and is a volunteer in Twin Cities Opportunities, Inc., an organization which meets and counsels with area men in prisons to aid in their return to society.

Gray was also instrumental in getting construction of the swimming pool at the Benton YMCA branch in 1963. He is currently vice chairman of the Berrien county parks and recreation commission and a member of the Benton Harbor recreation board. He served as a Benton Harbor city commissioner from 1968 to 1970.

Gray is a lay leader at the Union AME Memorial church and second vice president of the Benton Harbor Lions club. He is single and lives at 1080 North Euclid avenue.

Caple is a past president of the Benton Harbor Kiwanis club and currently a member of the club's board of directors. He and his wife, Mary, have six children and live at 2042 West John Beers road, Stevensville.

Five St. Joe Officers Seeking Police Chief Post

By LARRY MacINTYRE
Staff Writer

Five St. Joseph policemen have applied to become the city's next chief of police after Thomas Gillespie retires May 1.

Yesterday was the last day applications for the job would be accepted, according to City Manager Gerald Hepler. No other applications were received.

He said the five officers who applied were Sgt. Dale Adams, Det. Lt. Thomas Cooper, Lt. Francis (Ted) Fleisher, Det. Lt. William Mihalik, and Patrolman Dennis Soucek.

Hepler said the notice of the job vacancy was posted on a bulletin board in the police department but was never advertised elsewhere.

"There is enough talent right there in the department to pick from," he said.

Under the city charter, the police chief is to be hired by the city manager with the approval of the city commission.

Hepler said he hopes to set up an oral review board of from three to five police chiefs and city managers.

The board would interview each candidate and select one to recommend to the city commission.

The final selection should be announced by mid-April.

He said that since a police chief is not chosen very often, there would also be a lot of input into the process from commission members. Gillespie has been police chief for the past 30 years.

Among the applicants, Adams, 40, has been with the St. Joseph department since 1963 and he has been a sergeant since 1966. He has completed several police training schools and served in the Marines three years. He is married and has two children.

Cooper, 44, joined the St. Joseph force in 1953 and is now a detective lieutenant. He is a graduate of the FBI academy and has also completed several other police training courses. He is married and has two children.

Fleisher, 42, joined the force in 1961 and was promoted to lieutenant three years later. He holds a bachelor's degree in business administration from Tri-State University, Angola, Ind., and served in the Army from 1952-53. He is married and has two children.

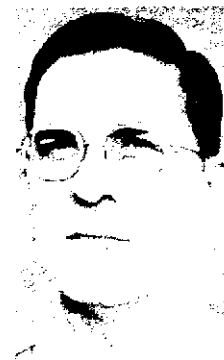

Mihalik, 32, has been on the force for the past 29 years and has been a detective for the past 26 years. In 1972-73, he served as the field commander of the Berrien county metro narcotics squad. He is a graduate of the FBI academy and served in the Army from 1943-46. He is married and has three children.

Soucek, 37, joined the St. Joseph force in 1965 after working two years as a Berrien sheriff's deputy. He received an associate's degree in police science from Lake Michigan College.

He served four years in the Air Force. He is the president of the St. Joseph police officers' association. He is married and has two children.

ARCHITECTURALLY VALUABLE

Restore Historical Homes

Editor's Note: This is the first of three stories about historic area homes.

By SAN DEE WALLACE
Staff Writer

Historically and architecturally valuable area homes should be saved for the future, according to Mrs. Ross (Michele) Spencer of St. Joseph.

Mrs. Spencer is chairman of the Historical Sites Committee of the Fort Miami Heritage Society of Michigan, Inc., and is beginning her fourth year of research on old area homes.

Her research began as a college class project and has continued into the development of the recently organized Historical Sites Committee.

Mrs. Spencer has researched 35 area homes which have basically retained their original architecture.

Many people are not aware of the historical and architectural significance of these homes, Mrs. Spencer says, and one of the aims of the committee is to make information available to the public on historical homes.

Mrs. Spencer has been interested in old homes, even before the class project. She says when she was a child, her family lived in such a home in Fort Wayne, Ind., and she has loved them ever since.

These old homes, she says, are in a way, a permanent historical display or a outdoor museum.

Interested persons can drive or walk past these houses which are tangible examples of the area's early history.

Projects being considered by the Historical Sites Committee are:

- Establishment of a historical district in St. Joseph, on State street, south of Elm street, and Lake boulevard, south of Elm street.
- Determine methods to save the few good examples of old (19th century) homes scattered through the area.
- Establish a free information service for people with old homes to learn what can be done to restore and repair their homes, and provide a general knowledge of the homes.

— Issue historic plaques to homes that still retain their old architectural features and charm.

— Generate interest in people to restore and maintain their homes.

— Help people discover how much 19th century architecture exists, gain more knowledge about it, and discover how valuable it is.

The homes Mrs. Spencer has researched are relatively unchanged by time and represent the following architectural styles: Romanesque Revival, Greek Revival, Gothic Revival, Queen Anne, French Mansard, Italian Revival, Octagon, English Tudor and Columbia Revival.

The homes are located in St. Joseph, Benton Harbor, Shoreham, Stevensville, Fairplain, Pearl Grange, Rocky Gap and Covert.

Mrs. Spencer has researched and compiled material on the following homes:

St. Joseph — North Pier, Coast Guard House, Romanesque Revival, 1850s; 822 Ship street, Hambley Flats, Romanesque Revival, 1902; 800 Broad street, Kehlstrom House, Greek Revival, 1850s; 619 Elm street, Wallace House No. 1, Gothic Revival, 303 State street, Wallace House No. 2, Queen Anne, 521 State street, Queen Anne, 608 State street, Collins House, Queen Anne, 1887; 622 State street, Romanesque Revival, 1904; 720 State street, Wallace Preston House, Queen Anne, 1891; 510 Park street, Fowler Preston House, Greek Revival, 1850s; 1023 Lake boulevard, Werschull House, French Mansard, 1873; 1103 State street, Italian Revival; 909 Main street, Italian Revival; 901 Main street, Queen Anne, 1321 Harrison avenue, Kingsley House, Queen Anne, 1895; Manley court and Langley avenue, Octagon, (burned down); 1800 Niles avenue, Octagon, (torn down); 1712 Niles avenue, Stratton House, Queen Anne, 1904; 415 Lake court, Philpott House, English Tudor, 1915; 2030 Lake View avenue, Chapman-Reed House, Gothic Revival, 1883; 1419 Forbes avenue, Queen Anne, 814 State street, Queen Anne, and an Italian Revival on Niles avenue.

Shoreham — 2412 Lake Shore drive, Gibbelsleigh, Greek Revival, 1850.

Stevensville — 5854 St. Joseph avenue, Stevens House, Italian Revival, 1869.

Fairplain — 2135 Collax avenue, Truhlo House, Italian Revival.

Pearl Grange — 1280 Hillendale road, Jakway House, Colonial Revival, 1927-29, and 1091 Hillendale road, Major Pearl House, Greek Revival, 1867 (gone).

Benton Harbor — House of David Park, Britain avenue, House of David House, Queen Anne, 1906; 693 Pipesone street, Sheffield House, Queen Anne, and the Railroad Switch Tower at the North Shore drive railroad crossing, Octagon, 1870s. The Switch Tower is the only local example of Octagon architecture still standing in the twin cities.

Rocky Gap — Off Lewis drive, Confield, Octagon, 1871. (Burned down); North Shore drive, Drake House, Italian Revival; 266 Higman Park, Carus-Hegler House, English Tudor, 1906.

Covert — Half mile east of Covert, M-0 intersection of 32nd avenue, Octagon, 1872-78.

According to Mrs. Spencer, the only surviving French Mansard home in the area is located at 1023 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph.

The house, she said, was built circa 1873 by William Werschull and his four sons, David, Jacob, Will and Julius.

The house was built on the lake bluff across the street from its present location. According to her research, Werschull bought the land for $300 in 1872 and took out a mortgage for $275 which was probably used to build the house.

A crack developed in the bluff behind the house not long after it was built. Every morning, he would measure the crack and when he knew it was getting larger, the house was moved across the street to where it now stands.

Not too long after the house was built, probably around 1880, the family moved to Muskegon to further carry on their ship building, according to Mrs. Spencer.

The St. Joseph City Directory of 1880 listed Lawrence and Bridget Larkin's address at the new location. They bought the land for $375 from Wallace Preston and took out a mortgage for $450 buying the house probably from William Werschull, who sold the land on the bluff in 1882.

The home can also be seen at its present location on the 1883 bird's eye view map of St. Joseph. The wing on the north side of the house was then in existence. It originally had only a small porch on the front. The dormer windows have very deep frames. The French Mansard roof has dentation around the top, two kinds of shingles and finely carved brackets under the eaves.

The French Mansard style basically used the same elements in its design, Mrs. Spencer says, as the Italian revival except for the French Mansard roof which provided extra living space on the top floor. Dormer windows pierced the roof and wrought-iron railings and decorations were used on roof ridges. The roofs often had slate shingles, or shingle patterns in different colors, such as different rows of scalloped, square, oval and/or diamond shaped shingles.

The house is now owned by Jack Mix who is working to restore the house. He says he wants to restore the house because it is the only French Mansard in the area and should be preserved. Since the house is unique, it should not be destroyed, he said.

FRENCH MANSARD: The home at 1023 Lake boulevard, St. Joseph, is the only surviving French Mansard style of architecture home in the area. Built in about 1873 by William Werschull, a shipbuilder, the home was first located across the street and moved when a crack developed in the lake bluff. Jack Mix is the present owner (Staff photo)

Combat 'Empty Calories'

Today more and more people are facing the problem of the "empty calories" found in drinks containing high concentrations of refined sugar, harmful to their bodies.

Numerous bottles, cans and mixes are prepared and consumed daily adding excess weight with no nutritional value.

Many home economists and dietitians believe one answer to this problem can be found with the use of natural fruit drinks. One of these drinks is apple juice. This is a handy snack drink sweetly satisfying, but containing no refined sugar, because it is 100 per cent natural with no preservatives, no carbonation and absolutely no artificial additives.

Pure natural apple juice, squeezed from fresh apples has a tangy taste that is thirst quenching - as well as refreshing. It tastes so good, those who drink it will probably forget it's good for them.

Family and friends can be provided with the vitamin-rich nutrition gained from natural apples at mealtime as well, with versatile, adaptable apple juice. Experiments - when cooking will have the family asking about the "secret ingredient." Apple juice can be substituted for water or usual liquids in corn muffins, biscuits, breads, rolls, pancakes or waffles.

Here's a speedy, ice cream lovers favorite:

APPLE JUICE FROSTY
One pint vanilla ice cream
Dash of nutmeg
Four cups apple juice

Combine ice cream and apple juice; beat with rotary beater until fluffy. Pour into serving glasses; top each with dash of nutmeg. Makes four to six glasses.

A natural pair, Apple-Raisin Loaf served with a tall glass of apple juice over ice.

APPLE-RAISIN LOAF
One package raisin spice quick bread mix
One cup chopped apples
One cup apple juice
Apple Glaze

Prepare mix according to package directions, substituting apple juice for liquid. Stir in the chopped apple. Pour into greased and lightly floured loaf pan. Bake at 350 degrees for 50 to 55 minutes. While still warm, drizzle with Apple Glaze; add enough apple juice to one cup confectioners' sugar to make pourable consistency. Makes one loaf.

And apple juice is a "natural" with pork. Try Roast Pork in Apple Juice.

ROAST PORK IN APPLE JUICE

One four pound pork roast
One bay leaf
One No. 2 1/2 can sauerkraut
Eight small white onions
Eight medium white potatoes
Eight carrot halves
Four cups apple juice
Place pork in large kettle; add bay leaf, sauerkraut, onions, potatoes and carrots. Pour apple juice over meat. Cover. Simmer two and one-half hours to three hours, or until vegetables and meat are tender. Serves eight.

SHROVE TUESDAY IS PANCAKE DAY

Celebrate Mardi Gras At Home

The mention of Mardi Gras brings to mind a vivid picture of New Orleans, colorfully alive with the costumes, parades and dancing that characterize this Lenten-eve carnival.

Bring a taste of this exuberant holiday to your home by serving a variation of Beignets, the little puff doughnuts that are a trademark of the coffeehouses in the French Market of New Orleans.

Golden Apple Beignets contain juicy bits of Golden Delicious apples and are easily made from refrigerator crescent roll dough. These dainty doughnuts are traditionally served with Cafe au Lait.

In some countries, the final day before the beginning of Lent is known as Pancake Day, named from the early custom of preparing pancakes to use up milk, eggs and fat, foods that were not allowed during the strict Lenten fasting. The custom of serving pancakes on that day still survives in some religious denominations. Golden Delicious apples add a new dimension to the tradition in Lemon 'n Spice Apple Pancakes.

Golden Delicious apples also lend their wonderful flavor to a special seafood entree for Lent, Golden Shrimp Curry. A blend of spices and seasonings enhances the apples and shrimp in this company dish.

GOLDEN APPLE BEIGNETS

One large Golden Delicious apple

One-fourth cup sugar

One teaspoon cinnamon

Two cans (eight-ounce) refrigerated crescent roll dough

Oil for deep-frying

Powdered sugar

Cut apple and cut into 16 slices. Cut each slice in half crosswise. Combine sugar and cinnamon and dip apple pieces, turning to coat on all sides.

Unroll crescent roll dough and divide each package into four rectangles. Seal diagonal perforations by pressing together. Cut each rectangle crosswise into quarters. Place an apple piece on one end of each rectangle of dough. Fold other end over and seal well.

Fry in oil heated to 375 degrees until puffed and golden three to five minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Makes 32 doughnuts.

GOLDEN APPLE BEIGNETS

LEMON 'N SPICE APPLE PANCAKES

One-third cup melted butter or margarine

Spicy Golden Apple Syrup

Peel, core and grate apples to measure one and one-half cups. Sprinkle lemon juice and peel over apples. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat egg yolks, milk and butter or margarine together. Make a well in flour mixture; pour in milk mixture and stir just until blended. Fold in apples. Beat egg whites until stiff and fold into batter.

Bake on hot, lightly-greased griddle. Keep pancakes warm in low oven. Serve with butter and Spicy Golden Apple Syrup. Makes about 16 pancakes.

Spicy Golden Apple Syrup

Combine two cups water, one and one-third cups sugar, one teaspoon cinnamon and one-half teaspoon nutmeg in saucepan. Bring to boil. Simmer five minutes. Three Golden Delicious apples, peeled, cored and sliced

Two cups chopped onions

One-half cup thinly sliced celery

Three tablespoons flour

One and one-half tablespoons curry powder

One teaspoon salt

One-fourth teaspoon oregano

One-eighth teaspoon cayenne

One-eighth teaspoon allspice

One-eighth teaspoon cloves

Grated peel and juice of one-half lemon

One and one-half cups chicken broth

One and one-half cups water

Two cups cleaned, cooked shrimp

Melt butter in large skillet. Add apples, onions and celery. Cook until limp and transparent. Blend in flour, curry powder, salt, oregano, cayenne, allspice and cloves. Combine lemon peel and juice, broth and water.

Eons ago the day before Ash Wednesday became known as Shrove Tuesday in England. Back then, milk, butter and eggs were among the food people gave up during Lent.

Whatever was left of these ingredients the day before Lent was made into pancakes. Thus, pancakes came to be a Shrove Tuesday tradition, and an honored one it has remained in many families.

This year on Feb. 22 try a modern Shrove Tuesday pancake.

SHROVE TUESDAY PANCAKES

Pancakes:

Two cups whole wheat pancake mix

Two-thirds cup wheat germ

Two and one-fourth cups milk

Two eggs

Two tablespoons vegetable oil

Apple-Cinnamon Syrup:

One fifteen-ounce jar applesauce

One cup maple-blended syrup

One-fourth teaspoon cinnamon

For pancakes, combine mix, wheat germ, milk, eggs and oil. Stir until batter is fairly smooth. For each pancake, pour scant one-fourth cup batter onto hot (400-degree) lightly greased griddle. (If batter becomes too thick, add one to two tablespoons milk.) Turn pancakes when tops are covered with bubbles and edges look cooked. Turn only once.

For apple-cinnamon syrup, combine applesauce, syrup and cinnamon. Cook over medium heat, stirring occasionally, until heated. For each serving, pour about one-half cup syrup over three pancakes. Sprinkle with additional wheat germ, if desired. Mix six servings.

Chinese Hail Serpent
As New Year Begins

The Chinese New Year celebration used to last much longer but today the busy world makes it necessary to be heralded for only a few days. The New Year is almost here and soon the celebrants will hail the Year of the Serpent.

The actual date of the Chinese New Year is Feb. 18, difficult to figure exactly since the Chinese observe the lunar year, based on the waxing and waning of the moon. Americans have enjoyed joining in with their friends to take part in Chinese customs, to party and exchange gifts and to partake of their delectable foods.

Each person, in the Chinese world, begins the year without debts, without quarrels and with gifts.

The Year of the Serpent follows the Dragon and comes before the Horse. Years of the Serpent have included 1905, 1917, 1929, 1941, 1953, 1965 and this year, 1977. The next time the Serpent is recognized, it will be 1989. Those born within the Years of the Serpent are considered wise, cultivated, attractive, amusing, elegant, calm and decisive. They should not become too overconfident as they are also reputed to be sore losers, extravagant, possessive and fickle... but Serpents are graceful, rarely ruffled or upset.

Foods of the Chinese are colorfully appealing. Duckling, the fowl which migrated from Peking to New York in the 1870s, is one of America's favorites in restaurants and at home.

One Chinese-style recipe, perfect for a Chinese New Year's dinner for family or guests, is Plum Perfect Duckling Quarters with Mandarin Orange Rice.

PLUM PERFECT DUCKLING QUARTERS WITH MANDARIN ORANGE RICE

One frozen duckling (four and one-half to five pounds) defrosted and quartered

One-half teaspoon salt

Two-thirds cup long grain rice

One can (eleven-ounce) mandarin orange segments, drained

One-fourth cup toasted slivered almonds, optional

Plum or Duck Sauce (recipes follow)

Wash, drain and dry duckling quarters. Sprinkle both sides with salt. Place quarters, skin side up, on rack in shallow roasting pan. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until meat is tender and skin is brown and crisp, about two hours. Turn several times ending with skin side up.

Cook rice as directed on package label. Stir in orange segments; heat. Arrange rice in serving dish and top with duckling quarters. Sprinkle with almonds, if desired. Serve Plum or Duck Sauce over duckling quarters and rice. Makes four servings.

PLUM SAUCE

One-half cup plum jelly

One-half cup apricot or peach preserves

One fourth cup water

Two tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice

One tablespoon finely chopped maraschino cherries

One tablespoon finely chopped preserved ginger, optional

Combine ingredients in saucepan, heat slowly. Simmer three to four minutes or until desired consistency. Makes one and one-third cups sauce.

DUCK SAUCE

One-half cup chutney

One-half cup apricot or peach preserves

One-fourth cup water

Two tablespoons vinegar

One teaspoon finely chopped plums, optional

Combine ingredients in saucepan, heat slowly. Simmer three to four minutes. Makes one and one-third cup sauce.

CHICKEN EGG DROP SOUP

Six cups chicken broth

Two tablespoons each, cornstarch, cold water

One tablespoon soy sauce

One-half teaspoon sugar

Two eggs, slightly beaten

Two green onions, chopped (including green tops)

Salt and pepper

In large saucepan, heat chicken broth to boiling. Blend cornstarch with water to make smooth paste; stir in soy sauce and sugar. Slowly stir into broth; bring to boil and simmer until clear, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Gradually add eggs, stirring until eggs separate into shreds. Add green onions; season to taste. Serve immediately.

SWEET- SOUR SCALLOPS

Nine Chinese dried black mushrooms (optional)

One and one-half pounds fresh or frozen (thawed) scallops, rinsed and drained

One and one-half tablespoons cornstarch

One can (eight ounces) bamboo shoots, drained, cut in half

One-half cup thinly sliced carrots

Combine mushrooms, bamboo shoots, carrots, peppers, green onions and water chestnuts; set aside.

Blend together soy sauce, vinegar, sugar and salt.

Tamera Koehler Is Watervliet Blossom Queen

By CLIFF STEVENS
Columbia Correspondent

WATERVLIET — Tamera Kay Koehler last night captured the 1977 Miss Watervliet Blossom queen title here before a crowd estimated at over 650 people at the Watervliet high school auditorium.

Miss Koehler, 17, a Watervliet high school senior, was named queen from a field of 28 contestants.

Amy Borrelli, 17, the daughter of Mrs. William Stewart, Beechwood Circle, Watervliet and the late Augustine Borrelli, was named first runner-up.

Selected second runner-up was Diane DeYoung, 17. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ward DeYoung, 92 Beechwood Circle, Watervliet.

Karrey Smith 17, was named Miss Congeniality by her fellow contestants. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Smith, 238 Pearl street, Watervliet. Her first cousin, Deborah Schultz, the 1976 Miss Watervliet, gave up her crown last night.

The runners-up and Miss Congeniality, also are seniors at Watervliet high school.

The 1977 Miss Watervliet is the daughter of Mrs. Lon Probst, 840 Bainbridge Center road and Dan Koehler, M-140, Watervliet.

The secretary of the Future Farmers of America club at school, Miss Koehler is 5 feet 8, has green eyes and brown hair. She plans to attend Michigan State university to study agriculture.

She wore a white gown, with scoop neck fitted waist and a two tier skirt in winning the crown.

"The Farmer In The Dell," was the theme of the pageant sponsored by the Watervliet Lions club. Co-chairmen for the contest were Earl (Whitey) Sprague and Darrell Day.

Master of ceremonies was Jordan Tatter.

Judges were Dr. Cassandra L. Book, professor at Michigan State university in the college of communication arts, East Lansing; Atty. Jeffery R. Jones, general counsel to Avis Enterprises, Ann Arbor; and Dr. Robert L. Andersen, associate professor of horticulture at Michigan State university, East Lansing.

Other contestants were Debbie Eggers, Sandra Casey, Laura Balfour, Sherry Cutlip, Cheryl Woodward, Debbie Rushing, Brenda Robertson, Victoria Smith, Melonie Isbrecht, Katherine Jennings, Mary Beth Creeden, Diane Sonnenberg, Jackie Bush, Candace Zechiel, Niki Moore, Karen Horton, Rosemary Carr, Debra Bradford, Carla Piggott, Debora Cerny, Cindy Zvonar, Julie Keinhofner, Kathy Rodriguez, and Kathryn Coburn.

The new queen will represent her community in the Miss Blossomtime pageant, to be held Monday, March 28, 8 p.m. in the Lakeshore high school auditorium, Stevensville.

On The Road

Pending Appeal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Hustler magazine publisher Larry Flynt is on the road for a series of public appearances while his obscenity conviction is on appeal.

Flynt, freed from jail the previous day, flew to Miami on Tuesday for taping today of appearances on the Phil Donahue Show and the Public Broadcasting System's McNeill-Lehrer Report.

Before departing, he issued a statement accusing anti-pornography groups of trying to steal his thunder.

Club Reverses

Ruling On Young

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Members of International House have reversed themselves and will invite United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young to speak to their organization of area businessmen.

Directors voted last week against inviting the New Orleans native when he visits the city next month for a talk at Tulane University. They reversed that vote Tuesday.

Benton Harbor Projects Deleted From Grant Bid

Recommendations for funding an additional turning lane on Main street to Riverview drive in Benton Harbor and for updating the city's land-use plan have been turned down, the Benton Harbor planning commission learned yesterday.

Lynn Meyer, city planning director, told the planning commission its recommendation for funding of the two projects under the city's $1.28 million Community Development grant will not be included in the tentative application that will go before the city commission for final approval.

The planning commission, an advisory body to the city commission, had recommended that the two projects be funded with Community Development money, according to Meyer, but the projects were dropped by the city commission in a workshop session.

However, Meyer said two other funding recommendations by the city planning commission to improve the Riverview drive area are still in the tentative application for funding.

The two projects still in the running, according to Meyer, are a $60,000 project to build a parking lot and add landscaping along the St. Joseph river near the former Penn Central railroad bridge and a $8,600 project for landscaping south of the boat landing along the river.

Meyer said the planning commission is asking the city to provide $34,747 in funds from the third year Community Development grant to provide a match for two grants the city is seeking from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources.

The news that the requests for funding of the comprehensive land-use plan and the turning lane project was received as a "major setback" by planning commissioners.

"These two projects, particularly the land-use update, were felt paramount by the planning commission," Chairman Edward Troffer said. "But we've gone as far as we can go."

The city will continue to seek other sources of funding for the two projects, Meyer said.

The turning lane project, budgeted for $32,000, would have included the purchase and demolition of two buildings at the southwest corner of Main and Riverview, removal of sidewalks and curbing and repaving.

The update of the city's comprehensive land-use plan, budgeted for $29,600, would have included a study of the city's population statistics, housing, commercial and industrial areas, transportation, land use, and water resources. Meyer said the land-use plan, which designates zoning classifications for future development, was last updated in 1973.

CONDEMNATION AWARD $244,000

New Buffalo Asking New Trial

NEW BUFFALO — City Atty. Lee Boothby informed the New Buffalo city council last night that he has petitioned for a new trial following a recent verdict against the city and federal government in a condemnation suit.

Last month a six-man jury in U.S. District court, Grand Rapids, issued a verdict awarding Louis Sima, 11373 Marquette drive, $244,000, for 4.81 acres of land south of the Galien river bridge which the city sought for its harbor refuge program.

Boothby last night said Sima's legal counsel has filed a motion to extend time to answer the city's appeals. Last month's trial lasted 7 1/2 days.

William Marx, city manager, said the city would pay up to $60,000 for the land designated by the federal government as part of the harbor refuge project. Last month, Marx told the city council there was no way the city could pay the $244,000 judgment.

The 4.81 acres of land was described by Marx as "flood plain marsh." The land is located on the west side of the new Whitaker street bridge adjacent to it.

Atty. Boothby said the condemnation suit was brought by the federal government, but under terms of agreements with the federal government and state, and the state and city, New Buffalo is responsible for all easements involving the harbor refuge project. The U.S. Attorney's office handled last month's case.

In other areas, the council in the wake of a Jan. 10 special referendum outcome, voted 3 to 2 to rescind its decision that rezoned property clearing the way for a proposed apartment development.

Voting to rescind their earlier action were councilmen Carl Keefer, Frank Magro and Elmer Kerns. Voting not to were Mayor Mrs. Carol Boud and William VanMeer, councilman. Mrs. Boud and VanMeer said they voted no because they felt too few of the registered city voters cast ballots in the special election. The issue was overturned by a vote of 365 to 64. The city has some 1,300 registered voters.

On Aug. 17, the council had voted to rezone land on Jameson and Bronson streets from residential to multiple-family use so that the apartment development proposed by Gracie Real Estate, Kalamazoo, could be constructed. The zoning was changed at that time from residential to multiple-family planned-unit development.

The real estate firm sought to build 48 one and two bedroom apartments in the area involved in the rezoning. The area was bounded on the east by Jameson street from Jefferson street to Madison street; and on Bronson street from Jefferson south to the city limits. The three-building development would have been the first phase of a $750,000 project by the firm.

Opponents to the development sought the referendum through petition.

The council appointed Richard Kay, Carl Krieger and Mrs. Burnette Nichols to the city's board of review for 1977. The board of review will meet March 21 and 22 to review taxes and listen to any complaints city property owners may have regarding their taxes.

The council also extended the city property tax collection deadline on 1976 taxes to Feb. 28, without any penalty for late payment being imposed.

During the water board meeting, that preceded the city council meeting, William Marx, city manager urged city residents to continue to allow water to run in a thin stream from a faucet to prevent water lines from freezing up. He said water mains that are three to four feet underground are still freezing. The board discussed the possibility of billing city residents for water lines that have to be thawed out more than once.

Berrien District Judges Sentence Nine People

Three people were bound over to circuit court, three demanded preliminary examinations and nine were sentenced in Berrien District court yesterday.

Bound over were: Claude Abbott, 40, 1736 Merrimac road, Benton township, on a charge of driving while under the influence of intoxicants, third offense, in Berrien township Feb. 3.

Malty F. Hill, 20, 321 Brunson avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of breaking and entering the Phillips 66 station at 330 East Main street, Benton Harbor, Feb. 5.

Demanding preliminary examinations when arraigned on the following charges were:

John D. Boyd, 17, 2370 Virginia road, Benton township, on a charge of possession of an altered bank note — a $2 bill altered to look like a $20 — in Benton Harbor Feb. 14.

Miss Patton was also sentenced to 90 days in jail for two probation violations, not reporting to her probation officer since October and moving without notifying her probation officer. The probation stemmed from a petty larceny sentence in January, 1976.

Sentenced were: Janice Rittman, 24, 121 Ridge road, Berrien Springs, $32 fine and costs for assault and battery against Bonney Meachum on Nov. 27 in Benton township.

Horse Owners Win Point

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Responding to angry horse owners' complaints, the state House called Tuesday for a review of an Agriculture Department plan to quarantine horses on the basis of a controversial health test. Horse owners claim the test for equine infectious anemia, an incurable disease, is not reliable. They say the state regulation could lead to slaughter of horses which don't have the disease. Equine infectious anemia is spread by blood-sucking insects. It is not communicable to human beings, scientists say. A resolution urging a review of the proposal was offered by Rep. Paul Porter, D-Quincy, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee. It passed the House by voice vote and now goes to the Senate. Under the proposed regulation, all horses reacting positively to the so-called "Coggins Test" would be quarantined and branded on the neck with the letter "A." Horsemen say that would lead to slaughter of the animals.

Teamster's Car Explodes

MOUNT MORRIS, Mich. (AP) — Investigators are probing the wreckage of a car that apparently was dynamited Tuesday while its owner, a local Teamsters official, was attending an arbitration meeting. No one was injured in the explosion, which is being investigated by federal, state and local authorities. Investigators refused to speculate on any possible motive. Neil Dalton, business agent for Saginaw-based Local 486, found the front end of his 1976 Lincoln Continental blown apart when he returned to the car, police said. The hood was buckled, the windshield shattered and the dashboard damaged, authorities said. Police described the explosion as small and said anyone in the car probably would have suffered only minor injuries from flying glass.

She'll Get 'Decent' Burial

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sarah Garrett, who died Sunday at the age of 107, will get the decent burial that her family says it cannot afford.

"She always told us," her granddaughter, Faye Kleinen, 28, said, "that when she died she wanted to be buried right with a service."

But family members said they couldn't cover the cost of a funeral because several of them are on welfare, laid off from work or sick.

The Baltimore Sun printed the story of Mrs. Garrett in its Tuesday editions and offers of burial sites, money and other assistance came from the Baltimore area and elsewhere.

Four cemeteries offered free burial sites, most saying they would also open and close the sites, provide vaults for the casket and markers for the grave.

Detroit Is Carter's Pick For U.S. Post

CINCINNATI (AP) — Judge Wade H. McCree of the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals says he looks forward to the job of U.S. Solicitor General "with a great deal of enthusiasm and not a little awe."

"It's what I believe is the finest public job a lawyer can have in the United States," the Detroit, Mich., native said Tuesday after he was nominated for the post by President Carter.

McCree would be the second black man to hold the third-ranking justice department position. U.S. Supreme Court Justice Thurgood Marshall held the post in 1955-67 under President Lyndon B. Johnson.

McCree said he identifies with several former solicitor generals, including fellow Harvard graduates Archibald Cox and Erwin Griswold. Griswold taught McCree at Harvard.

McCree said he also identifies with William Howard Taft, because Taft went from Solicitor General to the fifth Circuit while McCree will be doing the reverse.

McCree, who commutes between the Cincinnati-based court and Detroit, said the news was released while he was enroute to Michigan.

"I can't say it was a surprise at all, but the suspense was engendered by the delay."

The solicitor general represents the United States before the Supreme Court. He also plays a decisive role in choosing which cases and legal issues the government takes to the high court and in charting the administration positions on many other cases reaching the court.

Good Guitars Take A While

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — From raw wood to finished product, it takes nearly 18 weeks to build a Gibson guitar.

But customers of the modest, aging factory tucked behind an elementary school on a Kalamazoo side street are willing to wait for what they consider the best guitars in the world.

Gibson guitars start at $160 for a basic, acoustic model and range through 79 other models to the Citation electric at $4,000.

Nearly 300 woodworkers turn out the guitars favored by music stars such as Peter Frampton, Terry Kath of Chicago, and the Rolling Stones' Keith Richards and Ron Wood of the Stones. B.B. King's famed "Lucille" is a Gibson Citation.

Orville Gibson, a Kalamazoo shoe clerk, started the firm in 1894 as a maker of mandolins. When popular taste switched to the banjo, his company went along and later moved into guitar making.

The Gibson production line is different from most factories. The company's lone conveyor belt sits still much of the time as workers ponder over instruments before sending them along to the next step in production.

Only about 300 instruments emerge from the plant each day, and then only after approval from a pair of "final adjusters." They fine tune the instruments and play them while searching for defects.

The guitars are made from fine woods including mahogany, rosewood, spruce, maple and ebony, laminated together and then bound with yards of light tape.

In a tiny area of the plant basement, six of the firm's most skilled workers handbuild guitars for the most demanding customers.

Another section of the plant houses the "Red Tag" room where the guitars of the stars are sent for refurbishing and customizing.

"These guitars are so personally valuable to their owners that they won't even taken them on tour for fear they might be scratched," a company spokesman said.

'Pill' For Dogs On The Way

DETROIT (AP) — Fido's daily puppy "treat" soon may be more than a reward for good behavior. They could contain a new canine birth-control drug designed to stem the pet population explosion.

Dr. James Sokolowski of Kalamazoo, an Upjohn Co. veterinarian, told a vermin control seminar Tuesday that his company hopes to market the chemical, called "Cheque," this summer.

Canines would be fed the chemical on a daily basis, either in a special canned dog food or a dog treat. The animal's size would determine the dosage, Sokolowski said.

The drug has attracted the attention of Detroit health officials, who want to use it to control rats, said Lawrence Chadzynski, an environmentalist in the city's rodent control department.

Olivet To Note 133rd Birthday

OLIVET — Recognition of the 133rd anniversary of the founding Olivet college will be marked with solemn services on Feb. 20 in Olivet with the placing of a wreath on the grave of Father John J. Shipherd, who founded the college in 1844.

On Feb. 24, 1844, the Rev. Shipherd and 39 followers arrived by ox-cart on the wilderness hilltop in Eaton county, driving their herds before them. They felt God had directed them to this oak grove for the purpose of founding a co-educational Christian college open to students of all races.

First chartered as Olivet institute, the school received its charter as a college in 1859. For over a century it has provided a broad liberal arts education.

Founders' Day speaker will be the Rev. James F. Williams, currently minister to the First Congregational church in Belmar, Mich., during services at Olivet Congregational church at 10:30 a.m.

Rev. Williams, a 1953 graduate of Olivet college, received his B.D. degree from Oberlin graduate school of theology in Oberlin, Ohio in 1953. Coincidentally, Father Shipherd founded Oberlin college a few years before coming to found Olivet college.

While at Olivet, Williams was editor of the Olivet yearbook as well as the "Echo," the college newspaper.

Vatican 'Male Fortress' Is Breached By Women

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer
VATICAN CITY (AP) — A male fortress only a decade ago, the Vatican has since granted women an increasing number of jobs, but its ban on women priests bars them from any executive or decision-making posts.

Because of the Vatican's prohibition on ordaining women, recently upheld in a document approved by Pope Paul VI, the Holy See's only woman executive lost the job she had been given by the Pope five years ago.

Rosemary Goldie, an Australian, had risen to the rank of undersecretary for the Council of Laity. But a papal decree upgraded the unit to a "pontifical commission," an elevation requiring that its executives be ordained, thus reserved only for priests.

According to Vatican sources the reasoning was that a woman undersecretary eventually would be in line, through seniority, for the post of secretary, held by ranking prelates, and could have a claim to ordination.

Miss Goldie is reportedly in line for the sociology chair in a pontifical university in Rome. She will thus become the second woman professor in such a school. She said she harbors no bitterness for the change, announced in December. "One needs time for changes in the Church," she said in an interview. "Remember there was no lay woman at the Vatican before the Ecumenical Council (1962-1965)."

She said she also feels that Vatican women hold more responsibility than their titles make it appear. For instance, a German nun housekeeper for Pope Pius XII is said to have influenced papal decisions as the pontiff solicited her opinion on Church matters.

Now only one woman — an American nun, Sister Mary Thaddea Kelly of San Francisco — holds the rank of "official magister," a senior official but still below the executive rank, working in the department that deals with rules of religious and missionary communities.

Of the Vatican's approximately 3,000 employees an estimated 250 are women, up from under a dozen 10 years ago and 89 only in 1971. Most of them are in civil service jobs, such as the Vatican radio, but 106 of them, nun and lay, have made inroads into the Curia, the central administration of the Roman Catholic Church and an exclusive for male domain a decade ago.

And their number is likely to grow as the Pope appoints members to pontifical commissions recently created or reorganized. One Vatican source said additional women members in commissions may be one way of offsetting opposition spawned by the continuing ban on women priests.

However, 21 of the Vatican's 39 congregations (equivalent of cabinet departments), commissions or committees still lack women employees, including the vital Congregations for the Sacraments, and Cause for Sainthood. Biblical and theological commissions, the Rota Tribunal and the Vatican's elite diplomatic service.

Unlike in some countries, particularly the United States where nuns and practicing Roman Catholics are organized and occasionally challenge papal directives, there appears no organized drive at the Vatican or in Italy for ordaining women.

An undercurrent of mild resentment, if not frustration, exists, however, among some lay women at the Vatican. Commented a woman employee of the Curia: "I am disappointed that women cannot be ordained and go higher in the Church and the Vatican. The door seems shut — for the time being."

Over-all there is an awareness that male domination, ingrained during the reign of 261 pontiffs, cannot be done away with in the span of a single papacy in a Church that often moves with caution and justifies tradition as the very basis of some of its vital decisions. The Pope, while upholding women's equality in "professional and social life," has also counseled "wisdom and realism" in granting them positions of power.

Male domination is on the decline for posts open to women, says an American woman who holds the rank of "adetto" — attache or officer — in the pontifical Commission for Social Communications. "Male chauvinism has disappeared since the council," said Marjorie Weeke of Whittier, Calif. "There is more openness toward women now. As we become more international we work as a team."

The Vatican's spokesman, the Rev. Romeo Panciroli, said the Holy See makes no conscious effort to recruit women or to deny posts available to them. Women get equal pay with men for equal work, he said, although there exists a difference in pay among women, the nuns receiving less than the lay because they are exempt from family bonuses and their lodgings are provided in religious institutions.

FBI Eyes Suspected African Car Racket

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP) — The FBI is investigating a suspected multi-million dollar racket involving Ghanaian citizens who allegedly buy new cars in Massachusetts, then report them stolen and ship them through New York for inflated resale in Africa.

The agency has warned one of the nation's largest car-circuit firms to watch out for the purported scheme.

The Ghanaians allegedly involved come to the United States as tourists, businessmen and students, law enforcement and trade sources say. They allegedly report the cars stolen to avoid payment and collect insurance or skip out on installment payments, according to the sources.

On the West African black market, new and recent vintage cars in the six-cylinder category can bring up to $80,000 in Ghanaian currency, credits at official exchange rates.

The FBI here confirmed it is investigating the purported scheme but refused to divulge details.

The Associated Press learned the FBI has warned the giant Ford Motor Credit Corp., finance wing of the Ford Motor Co., of the purported scheme. That firm, in turn, has cautioned dealers in the Northeast to tighten procedures for selling cars to Africans, according to Tom Foote, a company representative at Ford headquarters in Dearborn, Mich.

Higher Gasoline Prices Predicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Gasoline prices started rising late last month and will probably continue to rise through the summer, oil industry experts say. Last year at this time, prices were falling, as they often do once the summer vacation driving peak is past.

But crude oil and refinery labor costs have gone up this winter, and the Federal Energy Administration has relaxed its regulation on passing on the costs to consumers. Industry analysts think gasoline prices will rise another 3 cents this year on average. The increase will be greatest for unleaded fuel, which costs more to make and for which demand is growing. Each penny per gallon increase costs motorists about $1 billion a year.

Panel May Drop JFK Probe

By RICHARD PYLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House assassinations committee is heading for a showdown between its feuding chairman and chief counsel amid reports that the panel is considering dropping its probe of the 1963 slaying of President John F. Kennedy.

The panel was scheduled to meet today for the first time since Chairman Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., tried to fire chief counsel Richard A. Sprague for allegedly trying to undermine Gonzalez' authority.

The committee was created last year to investigate the slayings of Kennedy and civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., but the panel has been awash in controversy, primarily over Sprague's demand for a $6.5 million annual budget and his investigative techniques.

The committee's ranking Democrat, Richardson Preyer of North Carolina, said Tuesday that eliminating the Kennedy probe "would be one of the obvious possibilities" in seeking to cut costs. Preyer added, "But certainly we're not even close to a decision on that yet."

Preyer, who heads the subcommittee conducting the Kennedy investigation, emphasized, "I think it would be premature to limit the panel's options on what it's going to do."

The Washington Post, citing informed sources, said today that bypassing the Kennedy probe was one option being considered by Preyer and other panel members. Another option would be to depose both Gonzalez and Sprague and reconstitute the committee under a new chairman and chief counsel, the paper reported.

Hasn't Been This Cold Since 1700s

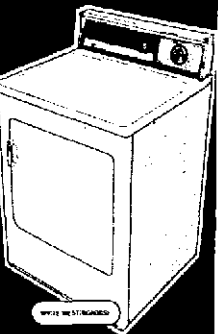

WASHINGTON (AP) — This winter's frigid weather in the eastern two-thirds of the country so far has been the coldest "since the founding of the Republic," the National Weather Service says.

The Weather Service reached that conclusion on Tuesday, drawing from government records dating back to about 1800 and from earlier "diaries, garden books, insurance records — wherever people wrote down the temperature," one forecaster said.

The average temperatures last month in the East and Midwest were the lowest for any January on record. The average reading in the East was 25.1 degrees, slightly chiller than the previous record, 25.3, registered in 1857. In the Midwest, last month's average was 11.3 degrees, well below the 12.9 degrees in 1857.

Bangor Okays Two New Street Lights

BANGOR — The Bangor city council Monday night approved entering into agreement with Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., to install two mercury vapor street lights at the intersection of Arlington street and the high school parking lot.

Mrs. Norma Sutherby, city clerk, said with construction of the new high school gymnasium, the parking lot had been extended into an area on the edge of the city limits where there was no lighting.

In other areas, the council referred a zoning request change from Mrs. Irene Johns, 24 East Monroe street, to the city planning commission. Mrs. Johns had requested that her property be changed from residential to business, so she could open a gift shop on her front porch.

The council hired David deBest as a new public works employee at a wage of $3.50 per hour.

ZOF, Inc., of Byron Center, informed the board it would replace a portion of sidewalk it installed from city hall to Stickle Insurance building (about a third of a block) at its own expense. The sidewalk was put in too late in the fall and froze up.

The council approved its final resolution on submitting its pre-application to the Housing and Urban Development department requesting $400,000.

THE COFFEE STORY, PART I

Frost, Fear Of Shortage Boost Prices

By DAVID C. MARTIN and TERRY KIRKPATRICK Associated Press Writers

The coffee surplus of yesterday is gone. There is enough to meet the demand today, but not enough to quiet the fear of shortage tomorrow.

The fear is very real, and that is why coffee prices in American grocery stores have more than doubled in the past 18 months.

The well-publicized frost of July 1975, in Brazil, the largest grower, reduced the world coffee surplus to the point where another such disruption could cause an absolute shortage.

The results: —Producing countries, taking advantage of the possibility of shortage, raised their prices sharply, dramatically increasing their revenues.

—Many U.S. coffee companies, willing to pay the higher prices and immediately passing them along, made a quick killing on the coffee they already held, but later absorbed some of the rising price.

—Coffee drinkers, refusing to quit buying, saw the retail price rise from an average $1.27 a pound before the frost to over $3 in some places today.

All this, and yet coffee was still available.

The 1975 frost cut production sharply in Brazil, but left enough green coffee beans on trees and in stockpiles to meet demand. Since the frost their price has more than tripled, from about 60 cents to $2.30 a pound.

What Happened Since 1975?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Why does coffee cost so much? Is there or isn't there a shortage? Here is a look at what has happened since a 1975 frost in Brazil touched off a surge in prices. Today's story is part one of three parts.

In the current marketing year, the Foreign Agricultural Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimates that there will be 45.5 million bags, just over 6 billion pounds, available for export.

World demand is expected to be about 30 million bags. The difference can be made up from Brazil's stockpile of about 25 million bags late last year.

By dipping into the stockpile, Brazil actually exported more coffee in 1976 than in 1975 — 15.6 million bags last year, compared to 14.6 million a year earlier.

It should have been no surprise that Brazil and other producing countries would try to get as much money for this coffee as they could. Needing coffee revenues to buy oil for industrial development, they had tried for years to raise prices by withholding coffee from the market.

Nothing worked. There was too much coffee available.

Then nature stepped in.

On July 17, 1975, a freezing wind swept up from Antarctica and brought frost to Brazil's major coffee-producing states. The Brazilians say the crop was cut to 5 million to 6.5 million bags — a drop of 70 to 80 per cent from the pre-frost year harvest of 23 million bags.

(The Foreign Agricultural Service estimates the 1976 harvest at 9.5 million bags, a drop of about 60 per cent.)

Overnight, the Brazilian frost jolted the world coffee market from surplus to scarcity. But reduced supply was not the same as absolute shortage.

Brazil had already completed harvesting the coffee that would be sold in 1975 and also had its stockpiles of about 25 million bags to draw on during the three years needed for newly planted coffee trees to start bearing beans.

The Foreign Agricultural Service estimates world per cent less in production

then. Industry observers attribute the overreaction to several things.

The two largest roasters and acknowledged price leaders — General Foods, which makes Maxwell House, and Procter & Gamble, which makes Folger coffee — depend heavily on Brazil for supplies.

The American companies bid up the price of green coffee as they shored up inventories, boosting stockpiles in the United States from 2.7 million bags in July 1975 to nearly 4 million in October.

By March 1976 — eight months after the frost — the world price of green coffee stood at $3 a pound — 40 cents higher than before the frost. Roasters eased up on buying, anticipating a consumption drop.

"The price of green coffee has leveled out in recent weeks," said Julius Katz, assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, in testimony to a House subcommittee early last year.

Since then, the price of beans has more than doubled.

"I don't know altogether what's caused it to go higher," said Katz.

One factor may be the higher taxes imposed by producing countries. Brazil boosted the export tax on a 132 pound bag of coffee from $21 before the frost to over $100 today. What the government will do is go on pushing up the tax and thus gradually increase prices until demand slackens," said Benjamin Belinky, president of the Brazilian association for the instant coffee industry.

But this far, contrary to expectations, coffee consumption has not dropped substantially.

Saudis Seeking Piece Of Action In Alaskan Oil

By ROBERT WELLER
Associated Press Writer
ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Saudi Arabia is talking about getting a stake in Alaska's offshore oil by putting its money behind a company which the United States set up to aid Alaska's native tribes.

The Associated Press has learned that Koniag Inc., a corporation set up under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, is seeking Saudi Arabian backing for an effort to bid for Alaska offshore oil leases.

Hurry Carter, Koniag vice president, confirmed that the company wants to qualify to bid for offshore oil leases, and that the Saudis have given Koniag "some feedback that they are interested in resource development in this area."

Carter also said Tuesday that "at least one of our board members is trying to make arrangements to go over there (Saudi Arabia) and talk to those people."

Reports of Arab interest in Alaska offshore oil have been circulating within the oil industry.

Foreign nations and corporations are not allowed to bid directly for these oil and gas leases. But a legal specialist with the Outer Continental Shelf, a federal agency concerned with developing the offshore resources, said that "there's nothing in our regulations" to prevent Koniag from bidding with Arab financial backing.

A spokeswoman also said that foreign-controlled corporations have sometimes set up

SOUTH HAVEN TEACHERS Writing 'Appalls' Trustee

SOUTH HAVEN — A South Haven school board member last night said he had been "appalled" by some of the written communications received from district teachers.

Atty. J. Glenn Sperry made the comment as the school board approved appointment of a teacher to take the place of a teacher on leave of absence.

He suggested that candidates for teaching positions submit a "written expression of their goals and objectives to allow the board to evaluate the candidate's thought process and writing skills."

He declined to elaborate on his comments today.

Supt. Harold Gaarde said that candidates are now required to write a short paragraph in their applications and that possibly it should be expanded. He said the administration would check into possibility.

In other areas, Gaarde said that the temperature in all school buildings had been reduced to 65 degrees in compliance with President Carter's request.

Gaarde said that the district's heating and electrical costs have increased 67 per cent since 1974. The cost of heating fuel for the current school year has been estimated to be $66,500 as compared to $32,974 in 1974-75. Electricity this year has been projected to cost $38,000 as compared to $29,326 in 74-75. It was reported that the deadline for filing petitions for school board terms at stake in the annual school election in June was April 11.

The terms of board members Sperry and Mrs. David (Jane) Witte are expiring. Neither incumbent has indicated plans to seek re-election.

A survey of last year's high school graduates showed that 49 per cent are continuing education. Another 31 per cent are

PARTY QUARREL

Man, 19, Dies Of Stab Wound

A Benton township man, who Benton Harbor police said was stabbed Saturday night during a quarrel at a birthday party, died early today, officials of Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, reported.

Douglas W. Camper, 19, of 270 Urbandale avenue, died at 3:30 a.m., hospital officials said. Camper was taken to Memorial Saturday with a single stab wound in the upper chest, Benton Harbor police said.

Tommy L. Davis, 21, of 216 South Fair avenue, Benton Harbor, was arrested shortly after the stabbing Saturday night and booked in Berrien county jail on a charge of assault with intent to do great bodily harm, police said.

DOUGLAS W. CAMPER Victim

Police Sgt. Sam Watson said this morning police reports compiled during the investigation of the stabbing will be resubmitted to the county prosecutor today for a possible authorization of murder charges against Davis.

Camper was found Saturday behind a house near the intersection of Broadway and Britain avenue after city patrolmen were summoned at 9:54 p.m. to 577 Broadway on a report a man had a gun there, police said.

Sandra Kay Suggs, 16, who was identified by police as an occupant of 577 Broadway, said an argument developed during a birthday party and several people at the party left the house, police reported.

Police said a search of the area after Camper was found Saturday failed to turn up any weapons. Mr. Camper was born Jan. 15, 1957, in Caruthersville, Mo., and had resided in this area 10 years. He had been employed by Harding Janitorial service and was a student at Benton Harbor high school as a night school student. He was a member of Mt. Zion Baptist church.

Surviving are his mother and stepfather, Portia and Willie Jones, Benton Harbor; a brother, George Miles Jr., Benton Harbor; three sisters, Thel-$10.1 billion a year.

Working poor families can claim a bonus of up to $400. That costs the Treasury $1.3 billion annually.

Meanwhile, the Congressional Budget Office said Tuesday that unless the economy develops unusually strong growth, the country will not have both a balanced budget and unemployment down to 4.1 per cent by 1982.

A more moderate growth rate, the office said, could produce a balanced budget with some leeway for new programs by 1982, but with unemployment still about 5.5 per cent.

The unemployment rate was 7.3 per cent last month.

Bert Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget, indicated in an interview on CBS radio Tuesday that if the choice comes to a balanced budget or reduced unemployment, he would choose to balance the books.

"I think we've got to deal with that (balancing the budget) because if we don't, then we're dealing with a lot of other problems that are going to cause unemployment to be even more severe," he said.

Police Eye Killer's Background

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) — Police here have begun investigating mass murderer Frederick Cowan's links to a nationwide militant racist organization.

Cowan, 35, was the gun enthusiast and Nazi worshiper who killed five persons and himself during a 10-hour siege on Monday at the Neptune morning company where he had worked before he was suspended.

William Hegarty, police commissioner of this Westchester County community, declined to identify the group but he said Cowan "carried a membership card of a right-wing organization."

Hegarty said he would not name the group because investigators were trying to learn whether other members lived in the area.

Hegarty said in response to a question that the organization he is checking was not the American Nazi Party, but added, "it is militant and right-wing and very heavily anti-black."

However, another city official identified the group in question as the southern-based National States Rights Party, which has about 1,000 members nationwide but none in the metropolitan area.

Wisconsin Man Sent To Prison

A Wisconsin man convicted of possessing a stolen vehicle in Michigan was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 3 to 5 years in prison.

Receiving the prison term from Judge Chester J. Byrns for receiving and concealing stolen property valued at more than $100 was Edward S. Sherman, 37, of Lake Geneva.

Sherman had been convicted of possessing a Chevrolet Blazer, stolen from Illinois, on Oct. 2, 1975, in Benton township. State police from the Benton Harbor post reported the vehicle was pursued at high speeds on roads and then through fields before Sherman was apprehended.

Alcoholic Worker Sues

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — A $1.3 million federal court suit, charging General Motors' Chevrolet Division with contract violations involving an alcoholic worker, went into its second day here today. George J. Raymaker, 44, of Bay City claims he was illegally deprived of wages and seniority at Chevrolet's Saginaw Metal Casting plant because he is an alcoholic. The suit is the first of its kind brought by a member of the United Auto Workers against one of the Big Three automakers, officials of UAW Local 688 said. The suit says Chevrolet and the union signed an agreement recognizing alcoholism as a disease. The suit claims the UAW contract requires automatic sick leave benefits for alcoholics. Raymaker claims he was fired in June, 1973 and rehired in January 1974 — but without his 11 years seniority. Raymaker was laid off on Feb. 1, 1974, and fired again on March 6 of that year for alleged misconduct in being absent without reasonable cause. The suit admits misconduct is the only cause for discharge of a UAW member, but claims Raymaker was actually fired for being an alcoholic.

Troopers Due In Detroit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State police troopers from posts throughout Michigan will report to Detroit Feb. 20 as members of a permanent city freeway patrol team. State Police Director George Halverson said Tuesday that the 110 troopers will be transferred from 57 of Michigan's 63 state police posts. Since August, when Gov. William Milliken first ordered the troopers to Detroit, officers have rotated their duty there. Milliken later made the patrol permanent and has urged legislators to approve state money to fund similar patrols in other Michigan cities. The Detroit post is in the Michigan Plaza Building.

He'd Streamline It

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Southgate legislator wants to make it easier for companies to obey Michigan environmental laws by streamlining the bureaucracy that administers those laws. State Rep. Thomas J. Anderson said he will ask for House approval of a new legislative committee to review the way the state protects its natural resources. Anderson, chairman of the House Committee on Conservation, Environment and Recreation, said his move should not be seen as an indictment of the Department of Natural Resources or of the state's environmental laws. But, the Democrat said, there is frequent confusion and delays in various state agencies, particularly when companies try to meet requirements for numerous permits.

RESCUED FROM WRECKAGE: Troy Lee Lewis, 38, is placed in ambulance this morning after the Amtrak commuter from Jackson to Detroit hit truck he was driving. He was trapped in pickup about hour. Fuel Tanker Ban Is 'A Lousy Idea'

DETROIT (AP) — Michigan trucking officials aren't enthusiastic about proposed regulations that would ban fuel-carrying trailers on some state highways during peak hours or in bad weather.

"It's a lousy idea," said a dispatcher for Michigan Transportation Co. of Dearborn. "Bad winter weather is when there is the greatest demand for fuel." State Police are drawing up proposed regulations that are expected to be made public Feb. 25 as emergency rules under the state's fire prevention laws.

The increased efforts to get such controls on the books came in the wake of two recent incidents in which fuel trailer trucks caught fire and exploded on Detroit freeways causing injury to at least seven people.

A spokesman for the Michigan Trucking Association (MTA) said if the weather turned bad enough for fuel trucks to be banned for several days, Detroit and other cities could run out of gasoline and diesel and heating oil. This would cause a consumer backlash, he said.

MTA officials said they will meet Thursday to put together a formal response to the proposed rules.

Large refineries and loading terminals, such as Marathon Oil Co. in Detroit, said they operate 24 hours a day and that banning fuel trucks for long or even short periods could result in delivery backlogs.

A Muskegon trucker criticized the media for its coverage of the fuel tanker story.

"Two people a day get murdered in Detroit and it's not on the front page," he said. "To make the front page, you have to kill a whole family or have an accident in a tanker."

The call for emergency rules to govern movement of the big fuel tankers came after a meeting between Gov. William Milliken and State Police Director George Halverson.

Trucking officials pointed to a record of 10,000 tankers which hauled six billion gallons of fuel products over Michigan highways last year with no fatalities.

BERRIEN DENTIST

Unreported Tax Charges Lodged

A Berrien Springs dentist has been charged with willful failure to file federal employers quarterly tax returns, the U.S. Attorney's office in Detroit said.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Loren Keenan said Dr. Junius B. Johnson, whose office is located at 753 North Main street, is scheduled to be arraigned Feb. 24 on charges that he failed to file both federal income and social security tax returns for eight quarterly periods in 1973 and 1974.

In trust for the government in 1973 and 1974.

Keenan said, if convicted, Johnson faces a maximum penalty of one year in prison and a fine of $10,000 on each count plus costs of prosecution.

Keenan said the charges against Johnson were filed with U.S. District Court in Detroit. The case, he said, was investigated by agents from the Internal Revenue Service.

Insurance To Rise For Autos, Health

DETROIT (AP) — Auto and health insurance costs probably are going to go up for many Michigan residents, but it hasn't yet been determined how much.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan on Tuesday asked the Michigan Insurance Bureau to approve a 7.6 per cent base rate request which would affect 22 per cent of its customers.

John McCabe, Blues president, said the company also will propose changes in its rating formula. If both requests are approved, McCabe said, most customers will face an average 12.4 per cent rate increase.

Also Tuesday, the Automobile Club of Michigan announced its 1.1 million customers will pay an average 17.4 per cent more for car insurance effective March 1.

Clifford Benson, head of the auto club's insurance group, said motorists will pay even higher premiums unless Michigan's no-fault insurance law is changed to eliminate needless lawsuits and limit medical benefits.

Damage to vehicles "should never have been placed under no-fault," Benson said. "Motorists can't understand why they should have to pay a $100 deductible even when the other driver is at fault."

The average auto club-insured motorist will pay about $13 more annually, Benson said.

The Blues and the Automobile

Club both blamed rising costs for the rate increases. Benson said the auto club suffered a $33 million underwriting loss in 1976 and a $27 million loss in 1975.

McCabe said the Blues requested 12.4 per cent hike is about one-third of the increase sought last year and less than half of what it actually received.

If the state insurance commissioner approves the request, the new rates will take effect July 1.

Berrien Man To Join Lineup In 'Michigan'

A New Buffalo man will be among six challengers Thursday night in this week's "Michigan" drawing of the state lottery.

Thomas Anoskey, 24, 110 South Townsend street, New Buffalo, has a chance to win $100,000 and is guaranteed at least $5,000 in the competition.

Anoskey, a construction worker with Osekka Construction company, Union Pier, will be vying to unseat the current Michigan champ, Kenneth Robertshaw, Warren, who has won $208,000 thus far in the competition. Robertshaw is the man who knocked Vincent Belbe, a Bangor junior, out of the championship.

Anoskey said he just started buying tickets several weeks ago and usually buys four tickets a week. He bought the winner at Skipper's Landing sports shop in New Buffalo and called it "beginner's luck." It was the first time he's won "anything to speak of" in the lottery, he said.

If he wins the big prize, Anoskey said "I'm not going to blow it." He said the top priority would be paying off his house. "I'm too young to even think about retiring — it would be impossible to retire on $100,000," Anoskey said.

Anoskey and his wife, Kathleen, have a son four years old.

Other challengers for Thursday's contest, according to Associated Press are:

Mark Antos, 22, an East Detroit lumber company driver.

Donald Buchalski, 30, a Bay City house painter.

Herbert Erickson, 64, of Farwell, a retired government worker.

Lansing GTW, seven Lansing employees of Grand Trunk Western railroad.

Kenneth Wymer, 50, a Union Lake bus company supervisor.

The current tolerance level is 30 ppm.

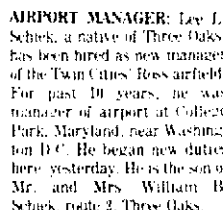

In addition, Brodhead introduced in the House on Tuesday a bill to establish the .02 ppm limit as law.

In another development, a federal advisory panel will meet next month to study human health problems that may be linked to the toxic chemical PBB in Michigan.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW) panel meeting is scheduled for March 2 in New York City. It was called by Dr. Jack Moore, head of a special PBB subcommittee at the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences in Research Triangle Park, N.C.

Moore's subcommittee will meet with Dr. Irving Selikoff of Mt. Sinai School of Medicine at the City University of New York. Selikoff directs a team that is studying possible health effects of the chemical.

The PBB subcommittee will "look at the entire PBB problem," and then advise HEW Secretary Joseph Califano on possible federal action.

U.S. Is Pushing Flood Insurance

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House is urging residents and businesses in flood-threatened areas to buy federally subsidized flood insurance "at bargain rates" before the snowmelt high waters of spring strike.

Presidential press secretary Jody Powell said that federal costs afterward would be lower if damages were covered by insurance, reducing the amount of low-interest disaster loans the government would have to cover.

NEW YORK (AP) — Six Iranian students who hung banners from the Statue of Liberty to protest alleged imprisonment and torture of political dissenters in Iran have agreed to pay $308 to repair damage in the statue, officials say.

LABOR DISPUTE

Lawton Objects To Hiring Rule

LAWTON — The Lawton village council voted last night to object to a recommendation by a labor judge that it rehire two police officers it fired last September.

Joseph Bivler, an administrative law judge with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission (MERC), recommended last month that the officers, Kenneth Anderson and William Walters, be rehired with back pay.

The village has until Monday, according to Atty. Horace Adams, to file exceptions to the recommendation with the MERC. If no exceptions are filed, the recommendation would become binding.

The MERC could uphold, modify, or reject Bivler's ruling in considering any objections from the village.

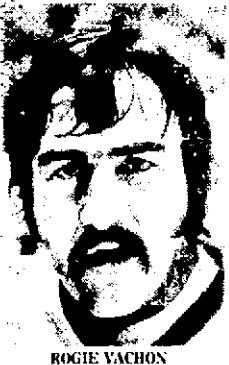

In his ruling, Bivler found the officers were fired because they were attempting to form a labor union. The village has maintained the firings were because of allegedly poor job performance by the officers.

The council also voted to hire the Grand Rapids law firm of Miller, Johnson, Seidl and Conkey, to act as consultant in the case.

In other areas, the council appropriated $800 to the Van Buren drug abuse program and scheduled a hearing on the 1977-78 budget for 7:15 p.m. March 15.

Women's Commission Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Counties would be given the authority to establish and finance women's commissions under a bill introduced in the Senate on Tuesday. The proposal would broaden a current law that established the Michigan Women's Commission, which studies and reviews the status of women in the state and discourages discrimination. The bill was introduced by state Sen. John R. Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids.

ROGIE VACHON
Record Eased

Goalie Vachon Has Short Moment Of Glory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — No goaltender in the 60-year history of the National Hockey League ever has scored a goal — thanks to the magic of videotape.

"If it wasn't for the tape, it would have been Rogie's goal," Marcel Dionne moaned after Los Angeles Kings netminder Rogie Vachon was credited — for only a little while — with a bit of history.

That the Kings beat the New York Islanders 3-0 Tuesday night with Vachon chalked up his fourth shutout of the season and 37th of his career was quite enough for the Kings' goalie, but still ...

In other NHL action, St. Louis walloped Chicago 5-1, Colorado dumped Detroit 6-2 and Washington and Minnesota tied 3-3.

At 16:27 of the first period, Dionne scored his 35th goal of the season during a scramble in front of Islanders' netminder Glenn Resch. It turned out to be the only goal Vachon and the Kings needed.

Then about a minute later, referee Andy Van Hellemond whistled a penalty against Burt Wilson of the Kings. But the Islanders had the puck, so it was a delayed penalty.

Into the Kings' end of the ice they went. Off the ice went Resch, in favor of a sixth attacker since play would not stop until a Los Angeles player touched the puck.

It never happened. Instead, New York's Bryan Trottier tried to pass the puck to Denis Potvin—but instead it went 190 feet into the unguarded goal, at 17:47. "I felt silly and stupid," Trottier said later.

The 10,236 fans went wild — and the din increased when it was announced that Vachon, who seemingly had been the last member of the Kings to touch the puck, was credited with the goal.

The fans left the Forum never knowing it later, was taken away by NHL scorer John Healy. He gave it to Vic Venzasky, the last Kings player to really touch it. Venzasky, who also scored the final goal in the third period, and the rest of the Kings did not find out until the game was over.

"I was really surprised I was given credit for the goal," said

Vachon. "I guess it was a short moment of glory — but I'll take the win and the shutout anytime."

Three-goal games suddenly are becoming commonplace for Claude Larose. He did it for the second time in four games, leading St. Louis past Chicago and widening the Blues' first-place lead in the Smythe Division to four points over the Black Hawks.

Ron Delorme scored 24 seconds into the second period, triggering a four-goal burst that boosted Colorado past the Red Wings. Just 1:29 after Delorme's goal, Paul Gardner got his second of the game, making it 4-1, then Jim McElmurry and Dave Hudson made it a rout.

Gerry Meehan scored midway in the second period for Washington, then set up Guy Charron's goal with about 21 minutes to go in the period, giving the Capitals their tie against Minnesota.

Rock Surprises Clobber Comets

BERRIEN SPRINGS — Berrien Springs got some unexpected help from some unexpected sources here Tuesday night in romping to its highest point total of the season.

Doug Ewalt, who had scored only 64 points all year, and Tony Sammons, who had tallied 73, both hit career-high totals as the Shamrocks smashed Coloma 93-59 in a non-conference clash.

Ewalt, a 6-2 senior, dumped in 18 points and Sammons, a 5-10 senior, swished 17 as the hosts raised their record to 8-10 overall. Terry Husbien added 17 to the Berrien attack.

"I was really pleased with the kids," commented Berrien coach Connie Stover. "Everyone played much quicker than in the last few games and played much better. Sammons had 17 points and 10 assists for his best game ever. And Ewalt came in when Jack Lewis injured an ankle and played his best game as a varsity player.

"We used a half-court man to man defense... we haven't done that for a long time here. It was very tenacious."

Joe Jones fired in 15 for Coloma and Rich Scherer 10.

Berrien took quarter leads of 24-16, 52-34 and 74-48.

The Shamrocks' shooting sizzled as they hit 32 of 67 shots for 48 per cent and were 29 of 41 for 71 per cent from the free throw lines. Ewalt was eight of 10 from the lines and Brad Dixon seven of 11.

Coloma sank 25 of 58 shots for 43 per cent and was nine of 17 at the foul lines.

Berrien made 23 turnovers and Coloma, which has lost four in a row, 26. Berrien had a 35-29 board margin.

Berrien Springs took the junior varsity game 76-42 with Joe Hager rifling in 31 and Brad Layman 22 for the Shamrocks. Kurt Eschler dropped in 23 and Ken Kne 18 for the Comets.

Razorbacks SWC Champ

Lockhart Helps Gophers Trip Hoosiers

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sports at the University of Arkansas usually is associated with football ... Frank Broyles ... Lance Alworth ... all those great Texas-Arkansas matchups.

They are not generally associated with a basketball team with the second-best record in the nation, 23-1, a No. 11 national ranking, and a Southwest Conference championship.

"It's a great feeling, especially at a school that hasn't won an outright championship since 1941," said Arkansas basketball Coach Eddie Sutton, whose team wrapped up the SWC title Tuesday night by beating Texas Christian 78-64.

"It's a goal that we set," said Sutton, "and now we've achieved it."

Ron Brewer scored 23 points and Marvin Delph 21 as Arkansas raised its conference record to 14-0. The Razorbacks jumped to a 43-24 halftime lead and coasted home against TCU, which is winless in 15 SWC games and 3-20 over-all.

The only major college team with a record better than Arkansas, top-ranked San Francisco, stretched its mark to 26-0, beating Los Angeles Loyola 104-65. In other games involving ranked teams, No. 8 Louisville defeated Tulsa 91-87 and No. 12 Minnesota edged Indiana 65-61.

Center Bill Cartwright hit on 11 of 12 shots from the field and scored 24 points as San Francisco clinched the West Coast Athletic Conference title by beating Los Angeles Loyola. The Dons broke open the game with a 28-4 burst only in the first half and never were in trouble.

Louisville led just 38-33 at halftime but outscored Tulsa 23-8 in the first nine minutes of the second half. Rick Wilson scored 21 points and Wesley Cox 19 for the Cardinals, 19-3.

Oshorne Lockhart, the Big Ten's top free-throw shooter, hit five foul shots in the final 1:33, helping Minnesota, 19-2, nip Indiana. That raised Minnesota's Big Ten record to 10-2 and put the Gophers one-half game behind first-place Michigan.

In other major games, Lew Massey's 30 points helped North Carolina-Charlotte raise its record to 17-3 with an 87-74 triumph over Birmingham Southern, the 49ers' 35th consecutive home victory. Otis Birdsong tallied 33 points as Houston topped Texas 95-84. Rich Laurel's 26 points sparked Hofstra to a 75-68 victory over St. Joseph's, Pa., and Glenn Mosler's 26 points and 20 rebounds helped Seton Hall defeat St. John's, N.Y. 75-69.

Covert Blasts Centreville, 108-58

COVERT — Covert is getting ready for a possible tournament rematch with unbeaten Bridgman in impressive fashion.

The Bulldogs, who lost to the second-ranked Bees 72-64 last Saturday night, came back strong here Tuesday night with a 108-58 rout of Centreville in non-league basketball action.

Covert, the state's No. 6 Class D team, rolled up southwestern Michigan's highest score of the season and its third effort over the century plateau while putting six players in double figures and every player in the scoring column.

Robert Maggard, a 6-1 senior, led the way with a game-high 22 points as the Bulldogs improved on a pre-game scoring average of 77.0 which was the third best in the area. Mike DeYoung added 15 points, Jeff DeYoung 13, Jerry Starks 12, James DeBoe 10 and Steve Hawkins 10 as the Bulldogs improved their record to 15-3.

"We played just an excellent game the first three quarters," declared Covert coach Rod DeYoung. "The last quarter got a little ragged."

"We ran well. It was 18-0 before they scored. The press was working well, too, and we got a lot of layups off it."

DeYoung said his team wasn't "really down" after the loss to Bridgman, and the Bulldogs made believers of any doubters Tuesday night.

Covert led 26-5 after the first quarter, 59-25 at halftime and 89-35 after three periods while hitting a deadly 46 of 82 field goals (56 per cent) and 16 of 27 free throws (59 per cent). Maggard swished 10 of 17 from the floor, Starks six of seven, Mike DeYoung six of 11, Jeff DeYoung five of seven, DeBoe five of nine and Hawkins three of five.

Centreville, coached by former Buchanan player and assistant coach Pat Sexton, slipped to 7-8 on the season while getting 15 points from Trent Grossman, 14 from Keith Pratt and 11 from Bill Bohm.

Centreville made just 16 of 82 field goals (19 per cent) but drilled 26 of 33 free throws (79 per cent), including 10 of 11 by Pratt.

Covert dominated the boards with DeBoe getting 15 rebounds. The Bulldogs also helped cause 38 Centreville turnovers while being guilty of just 15 themselves.

Covert also won the junior varsity preliminary 76-72 while getting 19 points from Greg Carrington and 15 from George Newell.

CHICAGO (AP) — The turnaround could not have been much more complete. A long day of negotiations Monday appeared to have found new ownership for the troubled Cleveland Barons. Then, a few hours later, the prospective deal had fallen through and every problem had returned.

National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell, looking haggard and sullen, said Tuesday, "My understanding of the arrangement is that the proposed deal ... has collapsed completely." Ownership was to have been transferred from Mel Swig to Sanford Greenberg, owner of The Coliseum in Richfield, Ohio, where the Barons have played their home games to an average of 5,248 fans this season.

"The offer included $1 million in new money to finance the operation for the rest of the year plus a personal commitment to raise another $3.4 million to continue the team," according to Coliseum President Peter Larsen.

That money could have been put to good use, since the players were not paid Feb. 1 nor Tuesday, the 15th of the month.

Swig said he would pay the players for the Feb. 1 payroll by midnight Thursday, thereby forestalling their becoming free agents under NHL bylaws. But he will be faced with a similar deadline in two weeks.

Swig's attorney, Howard Nemerovski, said, "The piece of paper shown to me (Greenberg's offer) was for less than $1 million and did not have in it an unequivocally firm commitment to raise additional money."

Swig added that "The deal presented to us was best expressed as 'locked in concrete' — impossible to be changed in any way." That precluded an agreement on the transaction, he said, causing Greenberg to pull out of the picture.

"With the rejection, it absolutely ends any hope of keeping the team alive — at least from Sandy's (Greenberg's) view," said Larsen. "Our indication is that with the rejection of the offer, the team is finished. The only person who could have saved it was Sandy. It is finished, to his horror."

Meanwhile in the WHA, the Houston Aeros did not add to their bank balances Tuesday night, but they did add two points and took over first place in the World Hockey Association's Western Division.

"If we have to go out (fold the franchise), at least we'll go out winners," said Houston Coach Bill Dineen after the Aeros defeated Eastern Division leader Quebec 4-2.

Earlier in the day, the Aeros learned, according to an unidentified player, that they would not receive their Tuesday paychecks.

Seventh Pro Team For Veteran

Braves Appoint Mullaney

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Braves are hoping seven will be Joe Mullaney's lucky number.

General Manager Bob MacKinnon of the Braves turned over the coaching reins to Mullaney Tuesday night, making Buffalo the seventh pro team which the 51-year-old Mullaney has coached.

"I'm just happy Bob had enough faith in me to give me the job," said Mullaney, who joined the Braves of the National Basketball Association last month as an assistant after Bates Locke was fired as head coach and MacKinnon took the job on a temporary basis.

"The interim period has come to a close," said MacKinnon, who coached the Braves for seven games, including a 126-114 loss to Washington Tuesday night. "I'm sure Joe will do a superior job."

Mullaney, who played with Bob Cousy at Holy Cross and helped the team to the NCAA title in 1947, coached Providence College for 14 years before beginning his odyssey through the pro ranks.

He coached the Los Angeles Lakers of the NBA in 1970 and 1971, then moved to the American Basketball Association, guiding Kentucky in 1972 and 1973 and Utah in 1974. He coached Memphis in 1975 and moved with that team to Baltimore following the close of the season. After the Baltimore Claws folded, he took over as coach of the Spirits of St. Louis in the middle of last season.

His Kentucky team compiled a 68-16 record in 1972, while his Utah squad reached the playoff final.

"He has some good ideas on basketball," said MacKinnon. "He's a good man. He won at Kentucky, Utah and Los Angeles."

The Braves have stumbled to a 19-34 record this season, including 16-30 under Locke, who took over after Jack Ramsay was fired following last season. They have undergone a host of personnel changes, dealing off players like Bob McAdoo, Jim McMillian, Tom McMillen, Tom Van Arsdale and Ken Charles.

The current roster includes some proven players, including forwards John Shumate and Adrian Dantley, center George Johnson and guard and team captain Randy Smith.

"The team has settled down pretty well and has some talented personnel," said Mullaney. "I hope to put in some new things offensively."

Mullaney said he has not been assured of the coaching job beyond this season. "I'll just be trying to work out the rest of the year the best I can," he said.

WMU Gals To Receive Scholarships

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — For the first time, women athletes will be eligible for sports scholarships at Western Michigan University next year.

Athletic Director Joseph Hoyer said Tuesday 31 tuition grants totaling $24,000 would be awarded in the 1977-78 academic year, with the number and dollar amount doubled the following year.

Women in 11 sports, including basketball, cross country, golf, gym and track, will be eligible for the grants.

Hoyer said women coaches at the Mid-American Conference school will concentrate on giving scholarships to students already enrolled at the university.

Women will get the same number and dollar value of scholarships as currently awarded to men's non-revenue sports such as soccer, wrestling, track, tennis, golf and cross-country, Hoyer said.

Schut Scores 30 Points In Hawks' Easy Triumph

FENNVILLE — Lyle Schut continued his hot scoring pace here Tuesday night as Fennville flattened Comstock Park 65-57 in a non-league game.

Schut, who hit 29 points last Friday night against Allendale, poured in a career-high 30 points, including 18 in the first quarter when the Blackhawks streaked to a 29-14 lead. Schut, a 5-2 senior forward, hit on 15 of 28 shots from the field for his 30.

Fennville, which put the game on ice by outscoring the visitors 20-6 in the third period, also got 10 points from Kurt Bale and Mike Thompson. Scott Devon swished 15 for winless Comstock Park.

The Blackhawks, 7-10 overall, canned 38 of 89 shots for 43 percent and were seven of 14 at the free throw lines. Fennville grabbed 40 rebounds with Schut collecting 10 caroms. The hosts made only 12 turnovers.

Fennville won the junior varsity tilt 70-49 but dropped the freshman game.

Hartford Foursome Keys 72-58 Win Over Galien

HARTFORD — Ken Lowe, Dave Gailhouse, Kirk Daniel and Bob Everhart provided the offensive punch as Hartford floored Galien 72-58 in Red Arrow basketball action here Tuesday night.

Lowe netted 18, Gailhouse 16, Daniel 15 and Everhart 12 — cutting off the bench — as the Indians liked their records to 6-5 in the conference and 7-8 overall.

Galien slipped to 4-8 in the Red Arrow and 4-14 on the season while getting 17 points from Brad Marshall, 16 from Rick Kuntz and 11 from Matt Koziel.

Hartford, which beat Galien

67-48 earlier in the season, led 12-9 after the first quarter, 35-22 at halftime and 50-42 after three periods.

"We didn't have that killer instinct tonight," stated Hartford coach Dick Pfeiffer. "We were flat in the third quarter, but we had a big enough lead from the first half."

Hartford protected its lead late in the game by going to a four-corner offense which produced some layups. Lowe also hit seven straight free throws in the fourth quarter.

The Indians ended up making 29 of 70 field goals (41 percent) and 14 of 24 free throws (58 percent). Galien, which lost its sixth straight game, meshed 22 of 63 from the floor (35 percent) and 14 of 30 at the lines (47 percent).

Hartford charts had the Indians with a 40 to 34 rebounding edge, including 13 by Daniel and 10 by Everhart. Galien's Kuntz pulled off 10.

Hartford also won the junior varsity preliminary.

Both teams will be in Red Arrow action again Friday night. Hartford visits Lake Michigan Catholic and Galien entertains Berrien Springs.

Brown Bomber Still Steals Show On Fight Front

By W.L. GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) "Hi, Champ, mind if I shake your hand?"

A casual guest at any important gathering of the fight clan might quickly look over his shoulder expecting to see the great Muhammad Ali or at least someone such as George Foreman or Smokin' Joe Frazier.

Not so. The center of that huddle over there in the corner is a tall, sixtyish man with just a faint trace of a mustache and a dimpled face sticking close to his elbow. To many ring followers, there is still just one champ — Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber.

"I don't know why," the 62-year-old product of Alabama cotton fields and Detroit auto assembly lines said at the latest bash thrown by King Productions, Inc. of Don King Productions, Inc.

"To my mind, the greatest fighter who ever lived was Jack Dempsey. He weighed only 188 pounds. He murdered guys who were 210 and 220. He was always coupin' 'em out."

Louis, a sports consultant for the Desert Inn in Las Vegas, is boxing's roving ambassador. Whenever promoters want to juice up a fight — as Don King did Tuesday at a plush Fifth Avenue hotel to announce the March 17 date and Puerto Rico site of the Foreman-Jimmy Young bout — they inevitably put in a call to the Brown Bomber.

Joe and wife Martha pack quickly and catch the next plane out. The problem is, no matter what the principal attraction, Louis steals the show.

He is a living legend, a lean destroyer in the years just prior to World War II, the second heavyweight title, winner of 65 of 71 bouts in a career that spanned 17 years.

As Louis stood in his own private receiving line — trying to be as inconspicuous as possible — George Foreman strode through the portico with his normal entourage.

"A super fighter," Louis remarked in that muffled tone of his. "I thought he was one of the greatest when I saw him knock out Joe Frazier in Kingston and Ken Norton in Caracas. Then, in Africa against Muhammad Ali, he was a bum."

Foreman is not in the top six of Louis' personal all-time list. Excluding himself, he rates

Dempsey as the undisputed champion No. 1, followed by Rocky Marciano and Jack Johnson in a tie for No. 2, Muhammad Ali, Sonny Liston and Gene Tunney in that order.

He admires the late Rocky Marciano for having the good sense to quit as undefeated champion.

"If Al came to me and asked my advice, I would tell him to hang his gloves up now," the Brown Bomber said. "He should have all the money he needs. He has done everything he set out to do. A better way for him to go now but down."

Louis said he had always admired Liston as a strong, destructive fighter and was the most surprised man in the world when the brute from Las Vegas lost twice to Muhammad Ali.

"I was just as surprised when Ali beat Foreman in Zaire," the ex-champion added. "I didn't think it could happen. But Foreman was young and easily confused. I don't think Ali could do it again."

Mroczek Paces Decatur Victory

DECATUR — Dave Mroczek continued his late-season scoring surge while leading Decatur to a 71-55 non-conference basketball victory over Mattawan here Tuesday night.

The 6-2 senior scored 18 points while helping the Raiders hike their record to 10-5. In his two previous games, he had netted 22 and 31.

"He has been a nice surprise the last three games," declared Decatur coach Tom Gibson, who noted that the Raiders have been hampered lately by Kurt Wiese's ankle injury. Wiese did get 10 points Tuesday, as did teammate Jim Smola.

Mattawan fell to 5-11 while getting 18 points from Jim Neubauer and 11 from Frank Farthing.

Decatur didn't score for the first 3½ minutes of the game but still led 12-9 after the first quarter and 28-27 at halftime. The Raiders then got rolling in the second half.

"The third and fourth quarters we decided we had to start playing basketball if we were going to go anywhere the rest of the year," added Gibson. "We started going to the boards and getting better shots off."

Gibson credited Jerry Groendyk and Dave Cerven with coming up with excellent defensive efforts.

Decatur ended up hitting 31 of 77 field goals (44 per cent) and three of nine free throws (33 per cent). Mattawan rushed 22 of 58 from the floor (37 per cent) and 11 of 20 at the lines (55 per cent).

Decatur controlled the boards while pulling off 50 rebounds, including 16 by Smola and 11 by Mroczek.

Decatur also won the junior varsity game in overtime 35-33, with Jim Overley getting the winning basket. Overley scored 19 and Tim Cerven 14 for the little Raiders, who are now 11-4 this season.

Decatur returns to action Friday night with a home SAC game against Martin.

Detroit's Controversial Arena Gets State Approval

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The city of Detroit has won reluctant state permission to sell $1.5 million worth of bonds to design a controversial riverfront sports arena.

The arena, one of Mayor Coleman Young's pet projects, was the go-ahead Tuesday from the state Municipal Finance Commission.

Approval came despite the commission staff's voiced belief that plans for the arena were imprudent, that the project could drain city coffers and further burden Detroit taxpayers.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley, a commission member, said afterward that despite his vote in Detroit's favor, he would urge the city to reconsider the project following this week's announcement by the Detroit Red Wings hockey team that it will not play in the arena.

"Downtown Detroit needs capital improvements to survive," said Kelley. "But Detroit does not, in my personal opinion, need an arena designed primarily for hockey and basketball unless it has solid assurances from both the Detroit Red Wings and the Detroit Pistons management that they will stay in Detroit and use the proposed arena."

Another commissioner,

Robert McKerr, said the panel approved the bond issue despite some reservations about the project because it was reluctant to supersede local officials who have been backing it, like the mayor.

An aide to Gov. William Milliken, meanwhile, said the governor has dropped state plans to build a 20,000-seat sports arena on the State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Such a facility had been planned as a key part of State Fairgrounds redevelopment. But the aide said Young and Milliken reached an understanding that leaves the governor the option of reconsidering the Fairgrounds arena "if it becomes apparent that the effort in Detroit will fail."

Without the commission's unanimous approval, the city would not have been able to proceed with plans for the downtown arena to be built next to Cobo Hall on the Detroit River.

Richard Allen, deputy director of the state Treasury Department's municipal finance division, said the staff recommended the bond issue be rejected because:

—It was not practical or economical, especially with indications that the Red Wings and possibly the Pistons might not play there.

—In light of what it called "Detroit's financial plight," the arena could prove to be a drain on the city's general fund money. Taxes also could be hiked under the bond proposal to pay off the bonds, it said.

It noted that last year the financially strapped city got a $27.8 million grant from the state to maintain its services and will get another $28 million this fiscal year.

—The method the city used to notify Detroit voters of its intent to build the arena was incorrect. But Kelley said Tuesday his office was satisfied that the method was proper.

Ghastin Sparkles In Paw Paw Rout

PAW PAW — Paw Paw remained in contention for Wolverine basketball honors by rolling up its highest score in 49 games over three seasons in a 91-68 romp over Gull Lake here Tuesday night.

Six Redskins, paced by Jon Ghastin, scored in double figures as Paw Paw hiked its record to 8-5 in the Wolverine and 10-6 overall. South Haven continues to lead the conference at 11-3.

Ghastin, a 6-3 sophomore who is just getting back into form after missing more than two weeks with an ankle injury, scored a game-high 23 points while hitting a deadly 10 of 17 field goals. He also gave his team complete command of the boards by leading the Redskins in rebounding with 15.

Craig LaPine added 13 points, Jerry Mitchell 12 and Howard Miller, Willie Gipson and George Crouse 10 each as Paw Paw won its third straight game.

Gull Lake, which lost to Paw Paw 87-64 earlier in the season, slipped to 3-10 in the league and 4-12 on the season while getting 14 points from Ted Lawrence, 11 from Donn Baseman and 10 from Jack Nuyen.

Paw Paw took scoring advantages in every quarter while meshing 26 of 73 field goals (48 per cent) and 19 of 23 free throws (83 per cent). Gull Lake swished 28 of 65 from the floor (43 per cent) and 12 of 18 at the lines (67 per cent).

Paw Paw also won the junior varsity preliminary 75-41 while getting 21 points from Gordy Myers and 12 apiece from Chris Weeks and Fred Snell.

Paw Paw has another Wolverine game Friday at Three Rivers.

'Jimmy' Hunter Of Yanks Loves Country Boy Life

HERTFORD, N.C. (AP) — Billboards at each end of this tiny town proudly proclaim it "Home of Jim 'Catfish' Hunter," but the New York Yankees' right-handed pitcher still is "Jimmy" to his family and the townspeople who have known him all his life.

Catfish Hunter is a familiar sight on television screens throughout the state in commercials for flea collars and his favorite chewing tobacco.

But visitors quickly learn the nickname was solely the idea of Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley and that Hunter dislikes it along with his "Yankees" pinstripes at the end of each baseball season.

"He gave me the name 'Catfish' when I signed (with Kansas City)," said Hunter. "Usually, when I'm playing ball — no matter where I'm at — when I hear somebody say, 'Jimmy,' I'll turn around and go over and talk to them. If they say, 'Catfish,' I'll just throw my hand up and keep on walking because they don't know me."

"Mostly, I'm just Jimmy

Hunter," he said. "If nobody knows me, I'm better off."

Jealous of his privacy, Hunter dislikes making personal appearances and eagerly returns to the soil of Perquimans County in northeastern North Carolina when baseball seasons end.

"I could have made five or six personal appearances a week, right up until I go to spring training," Hunter said. "But, I take about five a year and that's it. I feel like when I come home, it's my time. When I'm playing ball, it's their time. When I come home, when I do anything, it's because I want to do it. It's not because they want me to do it."

What Hunter wants mostly is to tend his two farms, hunt, fish and be with his family — his wife and high school sweetheart, Helen; 7-year-old son, Todd, and 3-year-old daughter, Kim.

Clad in grubby coveralls, Hunter sat in his pickup truck and gestured across a wide, flat field.

"I've got this farm to take care of," he said. "I got another farm up the road here that I've got to clear off and have ditches dug around, so I have to look after that."

Hunter said the 110 acres surrounding his unpretentious brick home were planted in corn, soybeans and peanuts, while 125 acres would be planted in the same crops once the land was cleared.

He said he borrowed money for his 110-acre farm from Finley, and pointed toward another farm adjoining the property. "That went with it, too. There were about 400 and some acres altogether," he said. "I was going to pay him back $20,000 a year until I got it paid back. He sent the money down here. I didn't sign any papers or anything."

Hunter said he withdrew the money Finley deposited for him and paid for the land.

"About three months later, Finley started calling me. This was during the season," Hunter continued.

Finley began pressuring him to repay the loan, Hunter said, and became more insistent when Hunter told him he did not have the money.

"The only day he would call would be the day I was to pitch," Hunter said. "I had 14 wins going into August — had an easy chance to win 20 games. In August, he kept on calling and I didn't win a game. I won four in September and ended up winning 18 games. If he hadn't called so much, I'd have won 20."

"I had to sell part of the land," Hunter said. "I thought, well, maybe I paid him back by being a free agent from him."

Hunter tasted revenge following the 1974 season when Oakland won its third straight world championship. Contending that Finley had not honored his contract, Hunter, the American League's Cy Young Award winner, moved to free himself from the Oakland organization. He eventually signed a five-year, $3.5 million contract with the Yankees and disproved Finley's assessment of his value.

ended Ball State 53-72 and Eastern Michigan 76-72 last week.

His 13 points against Eastern boosted him to 1,212 for his career and into sixth place on CMU's all-time point parade.

Albion freestyler Tom Armstrong (St. Joseph) has taken four individual firsts in his team's six MIAA swimming meets this season.

No Dunks Allowed At Bowling Green

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio (AP) — Coach John Weinert has ordered his basketball players to abandon the dunk shot for the rest of the season after dunking misfires triggered two losses for his Bowling Green State University team.

The National College Athletic Association permits the dunk shot this season for the first time in years.

Weinert said a 6-foot-3 guard and a 6-4 swingman missed dunk tries on fast breaks in back-to-back games. The Falcons lost both home contests by one point, 69-68 to Ohio University in overtime and 70-69 to Eastern Michigan.

Weinert, to his chagrin, has proved a reliable prophet. Before the season began, the coach of the Mid-American Conference school said, "The dunk will be exciting to the fans, but it won't win games. In fact, it may lose some games for some teams."

After the two conference setbacks, Weinert said of the dunk, "It's the home run of basketball, but when you have a guy on third and can get him home on a bunt you swing for the fence and pop up?"

Weinert would not identify the two players involved. The two losses knocked the Falcons out of league title contention with their fourth and fifth MAC setbacks.

Ford Motor Has Record Profits Despite Strike

By OWEN ULLMANN
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. posted record profits of $983 million in 1976 despite a four-week nationwide strike which the company said trimmed earnings by an estimated $348 million. Ford is the second U.S. automaker to report a record-shattering financial performance for the year. The firm's year-end results, released Tuesday, also provided the latest evidence of the auto industry's sensational turnaround from a two-year slump which Ford Chairman Henry Ford II called "the worst recession in 40 years."

Ford's profits were triple its 1975 income of $323 million — the firm's lowest return for a non-strike year since 1958 — and topped $500 million set in 1973.

Sales by the world's No. 2 automaker were a record $28.8 billion, up 20 per cent from $24 billion in 1975.

Fourth-quarter earnings of $171 million were up slightly from $170 million in 1975.

Water's Too Good For Drinking In Parched California

ALBION, Calif. (AP) — Rich and Mirna Sharp and their two children are preoccupied with finding enough water for the essentials of life. They try to make do with four gallons a day.

"You don't wash much of anything like windows or floors. When the kids go to a house with water, it's hard to get them to remember to flush the toilet," says Sharp, whose family is one of 19 in this Pacific coastal village of northern California.

Albion is about 150 miles from San Francisco up the rugged coast of drought-hit California, and its 70 residents have been without a firm water supply for a year.

The drought has been intensified because a privately owned waterworks that supplied the village was allowed to fall into disuse after the owner died two years ago. Local efforts are under way to reactivate it.

The Sharps go to Mirna's family home elsewhere three times a week to bathe, and they never have anyone over for dinner. When something is cooked, the pan goes right to the table. As few dishes are used as possible.

"Seems I haven't drunk water for years," said Sharp. "Can't waste it for drinking. Drink lots of beer and soda pop."

Gloria Petrykowski finds herself in a similar fix: "You don't flush toilets, you can't clean your house, you shower at other people's homes where they have some water to spare, you use bathwater to flush the toilet."

Mrs. Petrykowski, who heads a committee to return a steady water supply to Albion, said, "There's no water in the firehouse itself. They have to go a mile for water, and that's a one-shot."

Mr. and Mrs. Berry Matheny, another of the families that occupy Albion's two blocks, keep two 10-gallon drums in a truck that has not been washed in six months. They travel 20 miles north to Fort Bragg to fill them.

"We've given up our social life," said Mrs. Matheny. "Not enough water for them to come here. If they happen to use the bathroom, there goes your dishwater. We can't get enough water to take a bath. Even coffee, it's like drinking money. Just plain miserable."

To do a family laundry also means a trip to Fort Bragg.

The people of Albion have learned not to bother going to Mendocino, 40 miles away. People there are also having it rough and the laundries have long lines all the time.

The Mathenys keep a pan of water on the kitchen drainboard to wash their hands, and they use the water again and again. They wash vegetables in the same water, heat rinse water for dishes, then cool it and feed it to plants.

ADAPTING TO RATIONING: Nancy Perkins, upper right, and her three daughters gag it up for photographer at their home in Corte Madera, Calif., where they — like 200,000 others in water-short Marin County — have felt the impact of water rationing. Showering together, not using the dishwasher and wearing clothes until they get legitimately dirty are some things the family does to save water. LMC AUTO OFFICE Mechanics' Tests Booklets Available Information and registration booklets for auto and truck mechanics planning to take the next series of semi-annual National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence certification tests are available at the Lake Michigan college automotive technology office, according to Samuel H. Laswell, automotive instructor.

Booklets contain test registration forms to be completed and submitted not later than April 4. The tests themselves are scheduled for May 3, 5, 10 and 12.
The tests are not mandatory and should not be confused with certification tests of the Michigan Bureau of Automotive Regulation, Laswell said. But NIASE tests can be used by mechanics to obtain state certificates for repairs in certain fields, he said.

COOPER: Following suit

Haley Survived 12 Years On Publisher's Advances

Q: I know it took Alex Haley about 12 years to write "Roots." How did he support himself and what can you tell me about his own family? — R.J., Denver

A: He started off with a very small advance to write a rather modest book. This, plus a Coast Guard pension, kept him going in the early days of the project. As the scope increased he got more money from his publisher. About five years ago, Haley tried the highly lucrative lecture circuit. Right now, he's more than well-fixed financially with a number of new, related projects in the works.

Q: How come we don't hear much about Alex Cooper these days? Is the rock star in hibernation? — A.M., Montgomery, Ala.

A: Well, you might call it that. Cooper and his wife, Cheryl, have been chasing the sun all winter. The Coopers and Alice's pal, Bernie Taupin, Elton John's lyricist, and Taupin's girlfriend were in Acapulco two months and then took off for Tahiti. Not a bad life.

Q: We think the Cloris Leachman-George England marriage — together but in separate domiciles — is a terrific idea. How long have they had this arrangement, L.B., Pittsburgh

A: Cloris and George have been together but separated for some 25 years. How great an idea it is we wouldn't want to say. We hear the marriage is heading for rocky shoals.

Q: Since Peter Sellers is considered such a lady's man, who's his current girl? — R.L., Dallas

A: If you saw "Voyage of the Damned," then you caught Peter's latest, British ingenue

Lynne Frederick, who played Lee Grant's daughter in the film. But Peter's devil-may-care reputation is a bit overblown. He has to be very careful about just about everything since he's had several heart attacks. Example: He's a Vegetarian and a teetotaler. He just likes being in love and 22-year-old Lynne is very lovable, he says.

Q: We don't understand about that great star, Katharine Hepburn. Why don't we see her in more movies? And why doesn't she receive more honors like the other great actresses? A good example was when the American Film Institute's first award went to Bette Davis. Why not Miss Hepburn? — Chicago

A: Kate is very careful about her film appearances. She won't consider a small supporting role, because the public considers her a major star. The AFI did want to honor Miss Hepburn and she was the first choice. Unfortunately, the feisty Kate turned it down saying she didn't want to give away that much TV exposure of herself for free.

Q: With all the "Star Is Born" publicity about Barbara Streisand and Jon Peters, it got me wondering about Jon's ex, Leslie Warren. — G.P., Valley Stream, N.Y.

A: Leslie still carries the torch for Jon. They were married for eight years and have a son, Christopher. She's been having some rough times lately. The TV series she was supposed to star in got canceled and her recent nightclub act, which she tried out in Los Angeles, didn't go over very well.

Q: I know Peter Bogdanovich studied acting with the famous Stella Adler. How come he didn't encourage his girlfriend Cybill Shepherd to do the same thing? — R.P., Athens, Ga.

SELLERS: Overblown reputation

A: Peter did prepare Cybill for an audition with Stella. However, Miss Adler didn't know. A: Though the magazine has lost some of its advertising, its power and prestige, particularly in the wake of all its raunchier imitators, Playboy seems to have been bolstered up editorially by Christie Hefner. She neither thinks nor looks like a Playboy bunny and is very much in charge, from board meetings to minor personnel problems. Also, since the famous Jimmy Carter interview, she's been seeing a lot of Pat Caddell, the President's official pollster. They were at the inaugural ball together.

SANDWICH FAVORITE of singer-pianist Hugh Shannon: Mashed banana, peanut butter and crumbled crisp bacon on toasted cheese bread. . . . Did you know that the real name of John Denver is John Deutchendorf? . . . Faded Phrases: "She's a chippie," "It's delish" and "You might as well be talking to a fence post." . . . Woody Allen says he was going to the post office to complain about pornographic mail. "I sent for some," he said, "but it never arrived!" . . . Robert Orben asks, "Remember when you used to weigh coffee? Now you have it appraised!" . . . "Guys & Dolls" star Jimmy Randolph says that behind every successful man is his golf pro! . . . Gore Vidal's "Caligula" was brought in for $15 million. (Well, Rome wasn't filmed in a day either!).

SMATTERING OF SIGNS: ARIES represents the spring of the year, the spring of life, and thus the star of action for those under this sign. AQUARIUS is very independent and is not concerned about public opinion. CAPRICORN's motto is "never say stop."

Consumerists Renew Efforts

WASHINGTON (AP) - Consumer advocates, feeling the Carter administration will open a "new era of consumerism," are renewing efforts to obtain passage of a series of long-standing proposals, including creation of a federal consumer protection agency. The consumer movement has gained momentum during the past eight years on Capitol Hill. But the White House under Republican Presidents Richard M. Nixon and Gerald R. Ford generally was unenthusiastic about consumer legislation. President Carter has promised things will be different in his administration. On Monday he told Ralph Nader and six other consumer advocates in a White House meeting that he wants "to have a good relationship with all consumer groups. I need your advice."

NEWS OF MARKETS

Stocks Gain More

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market gained more ground today, adding to its advance of the past two sessions.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than a point in early trading, and gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

The market seemed to shrug off the news of a 1 percent drop in industrial production last month, as reported by the Federal Reserve Board late Tuesday.

Traders seemed to be going on the theory that the market had already taken into account the economic setback in the first quarter resulting from bad weather.

Charles Schultze, President Carter's top economic adviser, told the Wall Street Journal he expects the economy to bounce back strongly in the second and third quarters.

Today's prices included Eastman Kodak, up 3/4 at 73 3/4; General Electric, unchanged at 50 3/4; and Boeing, off 1/2 at 40 1/2.

On Tuesday, the Dow Jones industrial average rose 5.99 to 944.32, increasing its advance since the start of the week to 12.50 points.

Gainers held a 4-3 edge on losers at the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 21.62 million shares, up from 19.21 million on Monday.

The NYSE's composite index climbed .15 to 54.95.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .21 at 112.45.

Upjohn's Earnings, Sales Set Record

KALAMAZOO, Mich., (AP) — The Upjohn Co. recorded the highest sales and earnings in its 90-year history during 1976, according to figures released Tuesday.

Sales for the year were $1.025 billion, up 15 per cent over 1975 record sales of $890.7 million, officials said.

Net earnings rose to $77.6 million, or $2.82 per share, compared to 1975 earnings of $66.7 million or $2.26 per share, a 16 per cent increase.

GM Plans In Poland Bog Down

DETROIT (AP) — A proposed $1 billion truck building venture between Poland and General Motors Corp. may be dropped because of prolonged delays in completing negotiations, a top GM official says.

Executive Vice President Reuben H. Jensen, in charge of overseas operations, said GM has been trying for two years to conclude an agreement on development of a light truck plant, but the Polish government will not give the final go-ahead.

The plant would have this capacity to build 100,000 delivery vans a year. Half would be distributed in Poland, 25,000 would be marketed within the Soviet bloc and the remaining 25,000 would be exported by GM in Western European nations.

Jensen said unless a final agreement is reached "within three or four months," GM will back out of the talks and seek another way to build vans for its European market.

He would not confirm reports that Poland, which originally proposed the project, now may want to back out because of its economic slowdown and mounting debt owed to Western banks.

Benton Foe Of M-139 Closing

The Benton township board of trustees last night adopted a resolution opposing the proposed closing of a stretch of M-139 for one year during construction of a new Somerlayton bridge in Royall township.

Supervisor Catheryn Sirk said the closing would have a "devastating" effect on businesses along heavily commercialized M-139. She also said it would block a direct route to southern Berrien county.

The resolution supports an alternative suggestion unveiled last Saturday. This would utilize the old bridge while the first two lanes of the new bridge are under construction. Once constructed, the first two new lanes would be opened to traffic while the old span would be torn down and the remaining lanes of the four-lane bridge are completed.

Opposition to closing M-139 also was voted Monday by the Royall township board and last Thursday by the Benton township planning commission.

on battery-operated early-warning smoke and fire detector

Tips on where to place alarms

Detector should be placed at each bedroom area (A) in location allowing alarm to awaken all persons through closed doors. Should also be placed in exit paths (B) so alarm will sound before smoke might hinder quick departure. Always mount on or near ceiling in center of room or hall (C) or at top of stairways. Do not mount in kitchen, garage, or where concentrated heat might cause false alarm.

Regular $34.99. Help protect your family with this smoke detector designed to detect combustion even before flames actually appear! It can sense invisible particles of combustion in the air and warn you with a loud alarm. And because it's battery-operated, even loss of household power won't affect it. It even warns you with a "beep" when the battery needs replacing!
